Japan Refuses To Agree To Proposal; Agreement Is Afar Off

By HARRY R. FLORY

GENEVA, June 22.—Spirited debate broke out in the experts' committee of the tripartite naval disarmament conference this afternoon over the question of conversion of merchant ships into auxiliary cruisers.

Sir Frederick Field, British expert, ridiculed the idea that British merchant vessels could be converted into valuable wartime auxiliary cruisers.

Can Be Made Dangerous

"A merchant liner equipped with six-inch guns can be made just as dangerous, if not more dangerous, than a cruiser", interjected Admiral Jones, U. S. N.

"Cruisers below a certain tonnage have armor plate just as fragile as the 'eggshell' hull of a liner.

"When you start reducing the tonnage of cruisers you rapidly

Wife Of Murdered Actor May Offer Testimony Today

Indications Point To Dorothy Mackaye As Witness In Own Defense

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, June 22.—Dorothy Mackaye, film actress, may be called on today to defend herself on the charge of conspiring to conceal the beating of her husband, Ray Raymond, following a fist fight with Paul Kelly, motion picture actor and acknowledged sweetheart of Miss Mackaye.

The state prepared to rest soon after court opened today. Miss Mackaye, it was believed, will be an early defense witness, taking the stand this afternoon.

One of the last witnesses called by the prosecution was Kelly, who is under conviction of manslaughter for Raymond's death. Controverting the testimony of his Japanese valet, the sturdy young film player wrathfully denied that he and Miss Mackaye had ever eaten breakfast together in the bedroom of his apartment.

Kelly also denied that Miss Mackaye had tried to "cover up" the circumstances leading to Raymond's death or the manner in which he was killed.

War Veterans Fail To Convert War Insurance

Veterans Lose Billions, It Is Estimated By Bureau Of Government

JULY 1 IS LAST CONVERSION DAY

Congress Not Likely To Take Any Further Action Extending Time

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 22.—World War veterans will have lost about $36,000,000,000 through failure to maintain War Risk Insurance when the period for conversion expires July 1, it was learned at the Veterans Bureau today.

At the close of the war approximately $40,000,000,000 government insurance was in effect. The figure today is 2,815,000,000 with the probability that conversions up to July 1, will not increase it substantially.

Broadcasts Appeal

General Frank T. Hines, director of the bureau, has broadcast an appeal to veterans urging them to take advantage of the government's offer to convert policies in force, or to reinstate those which have lapsed. He said it is unlikely that congress will further exteud the time for conversion.

The value of policies lost to veterans at the endowment-maturity figure was estimated by bureau experts at close to $50,000,000,000.

Senators Declare For Equality In Naval Conference

American Delegates To Naval Conference Told To Stick To Equality

NAVAL ISSUE IN 1928 ELECTIONS

Senatorial Canvass Shows Dislike For Attitude Adopted By Great Britain

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 22.—If the American delegation at the Geneva naval conference returns with a treaty that prescribes anything less than an absolute equality between the British and American navies, ship for ship and class for class, such a treaty is foredoomed to death from non-ratification by the United States Senate.

A canvass of senatorial opinion made this certain today. Without regard for party considerations, Democrats and Republicans alike declared that the basic principle of anglo-American naval parity had been definitely fixed at the Washington arms conference in 1921 and that it will not be sacrificed at Geneva.

Assures Support

The unity of senatorial opinion on this point assures support for the State Department in the rejection of the British and Japanese programs at Geneva. The British program of "tinkering" with the Washington treaty and lowering the tonnage and armament on cruisers would relegate the American navy to a position of decided inferiority, while the Japanese proposal of a naval building holiday would leave the United States in third position among the navies of the world insofar as cruisers are concerned.

The "big navy" contingent in Congress has never recovered from its disappointment over the fact that the United States sacrificed naval superiority at Washington six years ago for parity with Great Britain. For the British now to endeavor at Geneva to wreck that parity and push the United States still further down the naval ladder is keenly resented by the "big navy" group in Congress.

The Harding administration had difficulty in pushing the Washington treaty through the Senate, notwithstanding the overwhelming Republican majority in the Senate at the time, and notwithstanding that the then Democratic leader of the Senate, Oscar Underwood, was one of the chief American delegates. Most of the Democrats deserted Underwood in that contest and voted against ratification.

With that fact still fresh in Democratic memories, and with the 1928

Commander Byrd Still Delays His Flight To Paris

May Start At Sunset, And May Not Start Until Thursday

MANY SPECTATORS SLEEP NEAR FIELD

Disappointment Because Giant Plane Did Not Get Away Today

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., June 22.—Commander Richard E. Byrd of the monoplane America today frankly admitted he did not know approximately what hour he will take off for Paris. There is a slight possibility he may start at sunset this evening but it is more probable that he will depart tomorrow morning. Weather conditions continue favorable.

A storm has been moving north from Nantucket along the Atlantic coast and there is also a low pressure area across the path of the flight, between Newfoundland and Ireland.

If weather conditions do not show an improvement this morning Byrd planned to go to New Haven, Conn., to receive the degree of master of arts from Yale University, returning here late today.

The silver-bodied, gold-winged monoplane with the red, white and blue letters, "America", on its sides remained in the hangar during the early hours closely guarded by a cordon of police.

Ropes have been drawn about the hangar to keep the throngs of curious away from the plane.

Wait All Night

Nearly fifty automobiles were parked all night in the vicinity of the hangar, their occupants sleeping in them so as to be on hand in the event of an early morning hop-off. There was considerable disappointment because Byrd and his three companions, Bert Acosta, the pilot, Lieut. Geo. O. Voville and Lieut. Bernt Balchen did not get away at dawn, as some of the most optimistic expected.

The four men who are to make this flight in the interest of science all have had spectacular careers and each of them has a big individual following at the hangar. They are widely different types.

Byrd, tall, well-built, with dark brown, curly hair and blue eyes is greatly admired by the women aviation fans, a number of whom have sought to induce him to take them along. His greatest single accomplishment being his flight over the North Pole on May 6, 1926. For this achievement he was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor. He was born in Winchester, Virginia, Oct. 25th, 1888. His broth-

Rose Show Opens At Auditorium

Hundreds Of Beautiful Exhibits At Garden Club Show

JUDGES BEGIN WORK AT NOON

New Castle's Third Annual Rose Show, the annual exhibit of flower lovers of Lawrence County opened today at noon in the Carnegie Auditorium, and a business like looking hall has been transformed into a floral paradise for today and tomorrow.

Describing the rose show is something akin to describing a sunset, or a Blue Ridge twilight or dawn over the Matterhorn. One can use just so many adjectives can be extravagant in the use of his phrases and cull a thesaurus for the choicest terms and after its all done there is a sort of tastelessness about the description. Doing it full justice would be achieving the impossible, it is something which must be felt and being felt can not be intelligently transcribed to paper or canvas. An emotion which is beautifully inarticulate.

Unadulterated Loveliness

The auditorium is just unadulterated loveliness, the very essence of beauty if you please for here is found the choicest gifts of Mother Nature. Gifts of wonderful roses, luscious looking peonies, garishly colored delphinium, gentle little mysotis, which you and I used to call forget-me-nots, cunning little

W. L. Shearer's Palatial Home Burns; Four Women Die In Blaze

DAUGHTER IS ONE OF FIRE VICTIMS

Her Chum And Two Maids Also Lose Lives In Mansion Blaze

(International News Service)

BOSTON, June 22.—Two Boston debutantes were burned to death, a maid leaped four stories to her doom and a second maid was asphyxiated in a closet today when fire swept the palatial Back Bay home of W. L. Shearer, vice president of the Paine Furniture Company.

A fourth woman in the house, Mrs. Anna Dixon, a governess, who had leaped from the fourth story of the Shearer home to a cornice of the third floor of the adjoining house in an effort to bring help, was at the point of death in City hospital. She was hanging by her hands when rescued by firemen. She heroically told them to save the others, that she could hold on a few minutes more.

The Dead:

Miss Betty Howes, 19, a chum, daughter of Henry Howes.

Lindy To Fly Back To East During Day

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ST. LOUIS, June 22.—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, America's air idol, will return to New York City this week to arrange his trans-continental tour, it was learned here definitely today.

The air hero will leave St. Louis today by his favorite air route, weather conditions permitting, to make a brief stop in Washington in a borrowed plane, leaving his precious "The Spirit of St. Louis" behind in care of friends in the St. Louis air mail service.

Lindbergh's trip east will be undertaken also to complete arrangements for publication of a book based on the "log" of his trans-Atlantic flight, he left his notes in Washington with navy officers, when he landed from the U. S. Cruiser, Memphis, and he will return to the national capital to get the notes and the professional comment of navy officers.

Then Lindy will go back to New York, the scene of the greatest ovation ever accorded a human being on this continent. He will return however, not to seek new ovations but hopeful of retiring to the life of semi-privacy he enjoyed in the Metropolis before taking off on his air voyage to France.

Convicts Escape From Prison Farm

(International News Service)

HOUSTON, Texas, June 22.—Posses searched the Trinity river bottoms near the Ferguson state prison farm today for 38 white convicts, who escaped from the farm last night.

The convicts cut all telephone wires to the farm before they left, authorities said. Some of the fugitives are said to be desperate characters.

'Cal' Catches Six Trout; Mrs. Coolidge Gets Two; Dakota Gets Much Rain

BY GEORGE E. DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

RAPID CITY, S. D., June 22.—The Black Hills, according to the natives, have suffered from severe drought for three years past.

If so, and they undoubtedly are telling the truth, those same natives owe a large vote of thanks to President Coolidge. As a rain-maker he is unexcelled. It has rained intermittently every day since he has been here, hailed once in a big way and generally placed the eastern visitors in considerable of a quandary as to whether to sally forth in white flannels or slickers. Those accompanying Mr. Coolidge have come to the conclusion he is carrying over his ability to bring on a downpour from last year, for at Paul Smith's in 1926 almost the same condition prevailed.

"Coolidge Luck" Continues.

Withal the "Coolidge luck" insofar as weather is concerned is holding on. A prime example was recorded Tuesday when the president was scheduled to review the South Dakota national guard, the ceremony to take place at 10 a. m. At 9:30 the commandant of the camp telephoned in to the executive office and announced it was raining heavily. At 9:45, he telephoned it had stopped. Mr. Coolidge reviewed the troops in a bright sunshine and ten minutes after the review was over another downpour set in.

The rain is not helping the fishing any, driving the trout under the banks and muddying the streams as it does, but it isn't deterring the president any from trying his hand at the sport.

Mrs. Coolidge Goes Fishing.

In the past two days he has been joined by Mrs. Coolidge, who suddenly decided that chasing the not so elusive trout afforded about as much excitement as anything else in the Black Hills. Yesterday afternoon, they went out together. The division of the catch was three to one, in favor of the president, who turned in six to Mrs. Coolidge's two.

The newspaper men, however, are betting that this feature story will get a new slant before long thru the simple expedient of a reversal in the weight of the respective strings.

And meanwhile, a long waiting public is about to get an eye picture of President Coolidge, hip boots, rod and reel, wading about in Squaw creek. After dodging the movie men and photographers for a whole year, he apparently has decided he has become a sufficiently proficient fisherman to permit action pictures and he has promised the boys an early engagement on the banks of the creek.

Hoover Wary Of Controversy

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Worms are worms.

But whether they are good bait for trout fishing, Secretary of Commerce Hoover, an expert angler, declined to say today.

He wouldn't be dragged into the controversy over President Coolidge's use of worm bait in fishing in the waters in the Black Hills.

CRASHES HIS PLANE TO SAVE CHILDREN

PITTSBURGH, June 22.—Halsey R. Blazley, 31, commercial aviator, was acclaimed a hero here today after crashing his plane into a shed rather than run down two little girls who had strayed out in the path of his descending plane.

Blazley was taken to a hospital where it was discovered he had suffered a broken nose and other minor injuries.

The aviator had been putting on an advertising stunt in the air, and was descending to the field, he saw the two little tots in his path. The flyer swerved his machine sharply. The plane turning over as it struck a shed. It was badly damaged.

Spectators rushed to the aid of the aviator, helping him to get out of his damaged machine. He was rushed to a hospital for treatment.

The names of the children could not be learned.

Will Rogers Finds It Not So Easy To Joke In Hospital

Will Rogers is taking the doctors' orders: "Relax, lie still and just relax," so he has suspended his dispatches to The News for a few days.

Press dispatches say the humorist-mayor continued to improve, following his operation at Los Angeles.

Rogers received a message from President Coolidge, which said:

"I am sincerely sorry to hear of your illness and trust that your recovery is speedy and complete."

Arthur Mometer

If this weather continues as warm as it is, and the sun just continues to glow, I think I'll be gone for some bright afternoon to a cool little place that I know. A place that is sheltered from curious eyes by elders that act as a screen, where the bank gently slopes to the cool purling brook, where the grass is a carpet of green. Where a fellow can swim in a way he enjoys without any clothes to impede, and trunks and jersey with green littered stripes are one thing a feldont need. A cool little spot that I used to enjoy when I was a tad, oh so small, its a long time ago but the fun of those days is a thing I can quickly recall. And I know if this weather keeps up as it is, that's the thing that I surely will do, go back to that spot where a fellow can swim, not bathe, weather's fine, eighty two.

Hugh D'Autremont Faces Life Term, Is Found Guilty

Youngest Brother Of Famous Train Robbers Convicted In Oregon Court

(International News Service)

JACKSONVILLE, Ore., June 22.—Convicted of wanton murder, Hugh D'Autremont, accused Siskiyou train bandit, awaited imposition of a sentence of life imprisonment today. Bandits, believed to be Hugh D'Autremont and his twin brothers, Roy and Ray, shot and killed three trainmen and a mail clerk during a tunnel hold-up in 1923.

Hugh was captured in the Philippine Islands three months ago. He was serving as a private in the United States army. His capture, and the arrest of Roy and Ray, in Steubenville, O., two weeks ago, ended one of the greatest man hunts in American criminal history. A half million dollars was spent in the case.

Roy and Ray arrived in Jacksonville under guard just as the jury trying their "baby brother" Hugh returned with the verdict of guilty. Hugh was specifically convicted of killing Charles Johnson, brakeman of the raided train.

presidential campaign approaching, it is certain that any treaty emerging from the bickering at Geneva will receive careful scrutiny from the left side of the chamber. Republican spokesmen agreed that it would be "suicidal" from a party standpoint for the administration to present any treaty to the Senate that would give the Democrats an opportunity to make a naval issue in 1928.

Control Uncertainty

Furthermore, control of the 70th Senate is a matter of considerable uncertainty. The Republicans have a paper majority of one vote, but potential control, if not actual control, is vested in the Democrats and a handful of Republican insurgents. Much depends upon the outcome of the Smith and Vare contests, but the Democrats are militantly confident of their ability to control the Senate on any given occasion.

Consequently from the political standpoint alone it will be necessary for America's delegates at Geneva to come back with a treaty satisfactory to both sides of the Senate chamber—or empty-handed. The only treaty that will be satisfactory is one that provides for a continuation of naval equality between the United States and Great Britain. Failing in that, the belief prevails here that the American delegation, on instructions from Washington, will return empty-handed.

Mr. Rentz told of the splendid work that the institution is doing in this community and of the co-operation of the women in other counties. He spoke of the beautifully equipped Home and spacious surroundings but with all being surrounded with every comfort. The folks that lived there needed sympathy. Mr. Rentz emphasized the great need of unselfishness.

Mr. Hover told of how the Home was furnished and equipped with new furniture, carpets and electric fixtures in the past year and the many donations received. He gave a very optomistic outlook for the future of the Home.

It was decided to endow the parlor room in memory of Mrs. Henrietta Butler who was one of the women in this city instrumental in founding the Almira Home.

Mrs. John Shiner, chairman of the Donation committee gave an excellent report of the donations received during the year. COMMANDER BYRD STILL DELAYS HIS FLIGHT TO PARIS

er Harry Byrd is now a Governor of Virginia.

He is married and has several children.

Acosta Is Dare-Devil

Acosta is the Dare-Devil type. He is tall and dark-skinned with a mop of coal black hair. He was born on January 1, 1895 in San Diego, Cal., and is of Spanish descent. He is married and has two children. He began flying in 1910 and quickly become one of the greatest pilots in the country. He holds an endurance and distance record from Omaha, Neb., to Philadelphia, a distance of 1,220 miles which he covered in eleven hours and twenty minutes. He is at present co-holder with Clarence Chamberlin of the world's endurance record of 51 hours 11 minutes and 20 seconds made last April.

Lieutenant Noville is a stocky squared shouldered energectic man who has a habit of constantly removing his glasses. He is the assistant pilot and flight engineer. He is a native of Cleveland and was born April 24, 1890. During the war he was in naval aviation on the Italian front and was decorated by Italy for distinguished service. He is married and makes his home in San Francisco.

Lieutenant Balchen, the fourth in the party who will make the flight, is the youngest, being only 27. He is a decided blonde, with light blue eyes and ruddy complexion. He was born in Norway but last week took out his American naturalization papers. He is unmarried.

Will Fly New Course

Commander Byrd said he will fly a new course across the Atlantic. He will steer on almost a straight line across the ocean, flying farther south than Lindbergh did when he took the Great Circle route.

An indication that Byrd will fly further than Paris was seen today when it was learned that Thomas H. Kinkade, field engineer for the Wright Aeronautical Corporation, builders of three Whirlwind engines with which the America is empowered, has been suddenly ordered to take the first boat for Europe. He will go to Paris to look over the engineers of the America when it arrives there, lending strength to the belief that Byrd intends to do some flying either in or from Europe, or possibly back to the United States.

Fair's Testimony

Testimony given by Fair relative to the case was to the effect that he started from Pittsburgh with Joseph Yokel and Mrs. Davies. He said:

Mrs. Davies had asked him to take her to her home in New Castle, as she had been ill for several weeks. He testified that he had gone to Mrs. Davies' rooming house and that she appeared with a package which, he testified, contained two pint bottles of liquor. Fair said that he had taken the bottles, separated them and put them in the pocket of the car on his side.

The defendant testified that he had not touched the liquor, but that Mrs. Davies and Yokel had taken drinks at frequent intervals.

He related how they had come from Pittsburgh and turned off the main highway, going to Ivywood, Saxonburg and finally arriving in Butler.

Mrs. Davies, according to the defendant, decided that she did not want to go to New Castle at this point and Fair stated that they started out the Chicora road, headed for Fairview, to see a man by the name of Edward Byers, whom the defendant had seen last year. Byers, according to the defendant, stated that he was interested in a car last year and Fair said that he went to see him about this matter.

Woman Becomes Ill

He testified that they went out to Karns City, where they turned to the right and proceeded to the home of Mr. Byers. Byers was not there at the time and Fair and Mrs. Davies waited for him. Byers returned about 11:30 o'clock and Fair spoke to him about the car.

Mrs. Davies took sick, the defendant alleged, a hot-water bottle was constructed out of an inner tube. Byers went to bed and the defendant remained with Mrs. Davies at the home of Mr. Byers until about 5:15 o'clock, when she asserted that she felt better and they notified Byers that they were returning home.

While on the road back Yokel became abusive and used obscene language in front of Mrs. Davies, the defendant testified, and Fair warned him that he must quit speaking in such a manner. Yokel then invited Fair out on the road, according to the defendant, and he agreed to fight it out with him, but in order to get rid of Yokel as soon as the alleged belligerent once stepped on the ground, the defendant stepped on the gas and drove away.

Cause of Accident

The defendant said that after they had passed Chicora Mrs. Davies wanted to go back and pick up Yokel who had been left behind but that he would not do it. According to Fair, Mrs. Davies made repeated attempts to reach the wheel, but on each occasion he was able to ward off her attempt.

Just before they came to the scene of the accident, Fair avers that Mrs. Davies said that she had lost her pocketbook and wanted him to turn around but upon his refusal she grabbed the steering wheel and this caused the accident.

He said that following the crash he reached down and felt her head and pulse and after realizing that she was dead he became panic stricken and ran away. He said that he was given a lift into Butler and then picked up a ride to Pittsburgh for which the paid the driver $2.

He said that he went to several police stations and after relating what had happened they told him that they did not want him. Finally he said that he went to his lawyer in Pittsburgh who advised him to come to Butler and give himself up to the authorities. This he did in company with his lawyer the next day, he testified.

bachelor buttons and brazen faced buttercups, daisies that seem to droop their long lashes in maidenly modesty, orange blossoms that call up visions of brides and organ peals and fluttering young bridesmaids, red and pinks and yellows, purples and blues and shades and tints that have never been named. A riot of color and a tidal wave of fragrance that envelops one in an ecstacy of delight, as his eyes attempt to devour it all and his olfactory nerves are assailed with the delicate redolence.

Nor are the flowers all of the show. Up in the front of the auditorium Clyde Hutchison the Carnegie Steel gardener, with the assistance of J. Clarence Miller and George Bechtol and Russ Melvin, and Henry Cohen has built a formal garden which is just about the prettiest thing of its kind ever attempted here.

A velvety lawn approaches up to a long stone wall atop of which are a wealth of ferns. Back of the wall is a pergola over which are entwined in lovely recklessness, rambler roses that seem to be striving for mastery of the inanimate wood. And then back of that a deep blue drop which when lighted paints a picture that reminds one of a June night on the Riviera. One can almost picture the formal garden of some old villa, hidden away from the world where Nature has been at work undisturbed by the drab influences of a material world. Where the soft effulgence of a Rivierian moon has lit up the balmy slope and one instinctively strains an attentive ear to catch the plaintive twang of some lover's guitar. And to the scene, add the twittering of birds.

In the center of the show are the tables, on which are displayed luncheon layouts, breakfast layouts, invalid tables, and to the beauty of the blooms has been added a pleasing array of chinaware. One of the children's sets is the property of Mrs. E. W. Greiner which she has treasured since she was a youngster six years of age.

At one o'clock today the judges began adjudicating the displays and by early this evening should be finished. The show will last until Thursday evening. Tonight the Sorosis Club will hold a demonstration of the manner in which to dress luncheon tables. This club is one of the many clubs of the Federation of Women's Clubs which has co-operated in the show.

Mrs. Marcus Feuchtwanger, president of the Garden Club and her committee women are to be commended upon the success of this Third Annual Rose Show. All it needs now to complete the success is a crowd of people to see it and this certainly should happen. For the auditorium spacious enough to set the show off in its proper light the Garden Club is indebted to Robert J. Tully, general superintendent of the Carnegie Steel Company.

Town Talk

Motorist of New Castle will now rise and sing the long metered doxology! A paen of praise will be sounded, the tom toms will beat a resounding cadence, and the flutes will strike up a lilt of sheer joyousness.

Bend an attentive ear folks. The concave paving on Wilmington avenue is being repaired.

No foolin'. It is. Workmen are engaged today in filling up the abyss made when the paving was draped in a semicircular shape, and in a few days now the danger of broken springs will be removed.

Every motorist who has looped the loop, or a tail spin or a side-slip over that piece of alleged paving will willingly subscribe to a handsomely engraved leather medal for Mayor Dunlap, the city council, City Engineer Frank F. Miller and Plumbing Inspector Mosely.

This morning Thomas Lynch was detailed to Gaston Park with instructions to bring back the goats reported to be browsing on the young trees of that city property.

Lynch endeavored to carry out the instructions and bring back a goat, but he was unable to find any of the animals reported to be in the park.

But he did bring back a "goat," at least he brought back a well known city employe of the city, a native of Wales, whom he laughingly reported to the sergeant in charge as the only goat he could find.

Since 1834

After he walked on, an assistant manager, who had noted the incident, went over to the boy and said: "What did the Ambassador want?" "I don't know," replied the bellhop. "He couldn't speak English."

WAR VETERANS FAIL TO CONVERT WAR INSURANCE

Of the insurance in force $625,469,000 is in endowment insurance and $713,481,000 in term insurance which must be converted into standard Government policies by July 2.

The Government is receiving about $53,000,000 annually as premiums on insurance on which dividends of a minimum of 3½ per cent is paid to policy holders.

To Distribute Billion

Between 1947 and 1957 the Veterans Bureau will distribute probably $1,000,000,000 in matured endowment policies, according to present indications. While the maturity value of policies now in effect will be well above $3,000,000,000 July 2, expert estimate that probably one-third will be paid off or lapse prior to maturity.

The Veterans Bureau is maintaining a large staff of experts in all centers of population and has the cooperation of many patriotic and civic organizations in the effort to successfully impress ex-soldiers with the benefits of government insurance. Officials declared that maintenance of the insurances will mean much to the prosperity of the United States during the next generation.

JURIES NEGLECTING DUTY

THERE is an increasing frequency of jury verdicts—evidently of the compromise variety—to hold criminals guilty in degrees that are manifestly inconsistent with the evidence. This habit is to be charged to increasing sentimentality. It is becoming less and less unusual for those accused of offenses in higher degree—and who are evidently either guilty in that degree or innocent—to be found guilty of crime in lesser degree.

Such compromise verdicts are compromise of principle. Jurors who permit their sentiment or views relative to the severity and kind of punishment decreed by law to affect their verdict are false to their oaths. The penalty imposed is not their affair. They are not responsible for it. Nor have they any right to allow its consideration to enter into their verdict. The exercise of clemency is not in their province.

All that the jury can rightly consider is the evidence and the law of the case as instructed by the court. To allow other considerations to control their decision is to violate their solemn obligations to the court, to themselves and to society.

AN AMERICAN DICTIONARY

THOSE who find fault with American slang expressions and forever complain about the atrocious manner in which the average American murders English may now hear an authority on the question.

Prof. William A. Craigie, of Oxford University, England's foremost lexicographer and one of the editors-in-chief of the monumental Oxford dictionary, has made study of English "as she is spoke" in the United States and finds it good. He has given his approval of American slang and speaks of it in this flattering manner:

"The United States is now at a period of intellectual creativeness and invention. The extraordinary facility that you, as a people, exhibit in the coining of picturesque and expressive slang is only one of the many manifestations of this."

Reasonable people must agree with Professor Craigie that "the real test of slang it its utility. If a slang phrase fills a long-felt want, it will get into the language." He might have added that any slang expression which fills a long-felt want should get into the language of the people.

Professor Craigie was brought to the United States by the University of Chicago to compile a dictionary of the "American" language. The sponsors of the plan make it plain that this will be an "American" dictionary, as distinct from an "English" dictionary. Philologists have long recognized that English as it is spoken in America is not the same English that is spoken in England. Countless words and phrases are not common to both countries. That is why one dictionary for both causes confusion.

An "American" dictionary is essential to the student of the language of the nation and should win national patronage.

OPENING GUNS AT GENEVA

THE American program presented at the Geneva naval conference is simple, straightforward and sufficiently elastic. It follows in a general way the ideas laid down at the Washington conference of 1921-22. The 5-5-3 ratio as among the United States, Great Britain and Japan is taken for granted. Three categories are slated for limitation—cruisers, destroyers and submarines. Definitions are stated. Provision is proposed for reconsideration in case any of the three nations is menaced by the naval program of a nation outside the pact. No scrapping is proposed, save in craft already obselete.

So far, so good. There is perhaps nothing fundamentally unacceptable in this program either to Great Britain or to Japan. But certain proposals were put forward by both these nations which point toward differences over details. They are of such nature as to require long and careful study by the experts and may make for rather protracted negotiations.

Over these relatively minor differences a deadlock is not only possible but probable. Deadlocks in international conferences are inevitable. Disagreements are to be expected. Yet anything like a failure at Geneva has not even been contemplated. The weeks to come will have their ups and downs. But it is scarcely conceivable that the delegates will leave until their main object has been accomplished, which is to put a firm and workable check upon competitive naval building as a menace to peace.

Most of us would rather have what we want than be happy.

Some people take themselves too seriously to be taken seriously.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 7:34. Sun rises tomorrow 4:29.

Once we saw a sign in a restaurant reading as follows: "Drink Our Coffee and You'll Never Drink Any Other."

A farmer friend of ours told us a few days ago that there was a new weed annoying the farmers in this vicinity now. Land Sakes! The old fashioned weeds certainly were annoying enough. Farming does not improve much as a way of making a living.

There seems to be some difference of opinion among college authorities regarding foot ball. One thing we do know and that is that football and all other college sports will last longer if they are confined to colleges and college students and are not allowed to disrupt whole cities.

The modern youth may smoke in bed and set himself afire. Twenty years ago dad would have set him afire.

It is reported that the Centennial held in Philadelphia last year has a deficit of $206,987.17. Some time ago it was reported as millions, so it's another sign that first reports are often misleading. Philadelphia is lucky at that.

Oft times a man is not as young as he looks.

Judd Gray is worrying that Albert Snyder, for whose murder he has been sentenced to death, had no time to prepare to meet his God. It looks as if that bozo was loco after all.

We read of a woman reformer who has just asked the girls to get back into their corsets. Guess she'll have to speak louder.

Now some Germans are making plans to fly from Berlin to San Francisco. If that stunt is ever accomplished we are betting an American will be the boy to put it over.

We heard a woman hater say on Sunday that when a woman begins to dress for comfort you know she has quit worrying about her age.

Scientists declare that man is the ape's cousin. But yesterday we heard a girl say that one is gnat's eyebrow.

There is quite a close connection between farming and manufacturing after all. Just now, on account of the backwardness of farm planting of vegetables the manufacturers cannot get an idea of the amount of tin needed later on for canning purposes. It looks as if they did not want to make too many cans.

We heard a bird from Grant street say yesterday, "I've no idea what my wife thinks of me. She never tells me—not even when she gets sore." Now somebody else tell one.

If an old-fashioned girl was to get upon the stage in New Castle and recite "Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight," the other young folks would yell: "Let 'er ring! On with the dance!"

It is beginning to look as if streets will have to be made wider and houses smaller.

It must be tuff to be president of the United States. No privacy at all. Last Sunday while the collection basket was passed in the church in which President Coolidge worshipped they all watched to see what he dropped in the plate and most of the congregation fainted when they saw him drop a five dollar bill into it. Most people want to keep it a profound secret what they drop into the collection basket.

An American girl was attacked and robbed by a guide in Paris. Some bozo trying to spoil Lindy's work already.

Tomorrows is the day of the picnic for the kiddies at Cascade Park given by Mr. Berquist. We have promised that we will pay for all the grub he needs if he has not had enough donated. We will never be a party to fooling the kiddies. Long live the kiddies of New Castle!

A prominent magazine writer says that a husband is no longer needed in the raising of the family. We would amend that by saying, except to be their father. After that a man is only a nuisance, unless the wife can get him to stay home while she is in club.

Further investigation shows that not a little in the way of farm relief and every other kind of relief could be achieved through the medium of lower taxes.

The chief need of the country at the present time is lawn grass that will grow more slowly.

America is a free country where a woman teacher is not supposed to know what a man looks like.

A grand jury can do most anything when it comes to making recommendations. Over at Reading, the grand jury reported that it favored a school for justices of the peace and aldermen in order that they may become more competent. Another was that parents warn their children against riding in automobiles with strangers. Both these suggestions are first-class and won't cost the county anything to follow.

Boasting that 700 wagonloads of rubbish were gathered after the Lindbergh reception proves that little Old New York's idea of a good time still consists in littering the streets with paper.

Senator Fess of Ohio says that President Coolidge will be a candidate again and that he will be renominated and re-elected. We agree with Senator Fess and we believe the country at large will help make it come true.

Though he may have been a king of the House of David, Ben Purnell seemed to have many human traits, especially that one of making love to pretty girls. Testimony at his trial seems to show that he was adept as a whiskered petter.

Saving deposits in the United States increased a billion dollars last year in spite of the activity of the high-pressure salesmen and bandits. With that much on savings account the country is safe for a little while.

During the war the fad was to name everything after Pershing, Foch, Joffre, Haig and other noted generals. Now those things are being changed to "Lindbergh." There is hope yet that something will be named after us some day besides March 12th babies.

It is now proven that Roman women of 1800 years ago had corns just the same as the women of today. After all is said and done history proves that human nature and human traits are just about the same from one generation to another. Some of these days we expect to learn that Roman women rouged up and aided nature in making themselves attractive.

In Lawrence county last year just twice the number of babies were born as there were deaths. That is giving old Father Time a good race, and we can't help thinking that we have aided in this with our March 12th gold pieces.

A 90-year-old man in Chicago has just taken another wife. Out in the west they do most anything that is reckless and unaccountable in the east.

In Indiana they are het up over the question whether or not Whiskey is medicine. A good many men have found it to be bad medicine.

VAIN PURSUITS

A dog who lived out on a farm
Beside a main highway,
Chased ev'ry automobile that
Sped by throughout the day.
He chased each car 'till out of breath
And left quite far behind,
Then homeward trotted wearily
Some cooling shade to find.

But by and by his legs grew stiff
As age came creeping on,
"I fear," he whined, "things will go bad
'Round here when I am gone."
Just so some people chase vain things
That beckon and beguile,
And kid themselves by thinking they
Are doing things worth while.

Scotch stories? Ye Gods, we're full of 'em! Try this one on the gang, and if it meets with approval, we'll be back with more:

It was not the dollar fee that caused Sandy to look so sorrowful as he staggered from the palmist's tent at the local fete.

"Mon, Sandy, what's wrong w'ye," exclaimed a friend, "Ye're lookin' awfu' glum."

Sandy pointed to the tent he had just left and answered: "That woman in there telt me my wife's second husband was tae be very handsome and clever."

"But," said his friend, "ye're no needin' tae worry aboot that. It'll be all the same when ye're dead and awa'."

"It's not that," replied Sandy, "Whit' a makin' me said is tae ken Jean was mairrit afore an' never telt me!"

In these sophisticated days, there's not much thrill in holding a beautiful hand unless it's a bridge hand.

One cause of the discontent in the average home is because mother loves the monotony of housework about as much as father loves paying taxes.

Our idea of a really wonderful man is a guy who has a wife and three daughters and is still able to buy an occasional pair of socks for himself.

If absence makes the heart grow fonder, Americans are developing a remarkable love for home.

Family doesn't mean so much in a democracy. The royal line is a headline.

Headline for 1997: "American Reaches China. First man to dig a hole through the earth."

It might be worse. You never hear anybody say: "She totes her liquor like a gentleman."

Speaking of comic strips, there's the way a boy looks at the ole swimmin' hole.

One Frenchman, who killed 2,000,000 poisonous snakes in India, had their skins cured in Switzerland and sold as ladies' shoes in Paris, is coming to organize snake killing and skinning on a big scale here.

May the French gentleman concentrate on rattlesnakes and oblige many of our states. The Lord (see Genesis III:15) warned the guilty serpent, "upon thy belly shalt thou go and dust shalt thou eat all the days of thy life." And further warned him that "the seed of the woman shall bruise thy head." Little did the serpent imagine that Eve's female descendants would some day go to and fro in the earth wearing skins of the serpent's descendants as shoe leather. That is having the last word.

This earth, according to scientists, will last at least a hundred million years more. By that time, "all the inhabitants of heaven, earth and hell itself" will make a total most impressive.

It is interesting to reflect that Lindbergh will be in that crowd, with David, Goliath, George Washington, Bonaparte, Joan of Arc, Wellington, everybody you ever heard of.

The Pennsylvania railroad, commanded by General Atterbury, now a three thousand million dollar concern, announces a gross income in 1926 of $784,062,000, and, of every dollar, 46 cents and 32 one-hundredths went for wages. That should suit everybody. Men that do 100 per cent of the work might well get 46 per cent of the income, assuming good pay for those that do the thinking.

Six doctors in a public hospital are accused of hazing three younger doctors, who were bound, gagged tied to their beds, ducked in cold water, covered with shoe blacking and otherwise treated brutally.

The six accused, if convicted, should be made to postpone the practice of medicine for about ten years, while learning not to disgrace that profession.

This stupid hazing of full-grown men, who should have known better, is contemptible.

London eagerly awaits Miss Fannie Ward, actress, aged 60, said "to look not a day older than 20."

Old ladies, anxious to be young, will be interested in Miss Ward's demonstration that the thing is possible. However, it is much less important that a woman of 60 should look like a woman of 20 than it is for a woman of 60 to look like a sensible woman of 60.

Those anxious to keep out inferior foreigners," forgetting that this nation, except a few Indians, is made up entirely of immigrants and their descendants, may be interested in the report on New York city's charity organization society.

Among families asking for help, unable to take care of themselves, and investigated, 95 per cent were native-born Americans, only 5 per cent foreigners.

Lindbergh has been made a colonel in the United States army air corps reserve by Secretary Davis, which is pleasant; not important. It would have given Lindbergh more pleasure to hear from Secretary Davis that a man understanding flying would be put in charge of United States air forces, and those forces no longer be made second-class toys of the army and navy departments.

ALTERATIONS

It's curtains for the windows and geraniums for the sills,
And countless little jimcracks for the nooks,
And who am I to grumble at the items on the bills
Or spoil her joy with cold and bitter looks?
For it's plain as plain can be, you can read it in her face
A woman isn't happy 'less she's fixing up the place.

Oh, the house is looking lovely, but there's still a lot to do,
And she's always talking things she wants to buy,
And now and then I wonder if she ever will get through
Shall I ever see contentment in her eye?
Will there ever come a time when there's nothing more to do?
Will there ever dawn a morning when she wants for nothing new?

Lord, I pray it won't be finished! May this house of ours remain
In constant need of changes and repairs,
May it keep on growing lovely, by the magic of her brain,
May it keep on needing newer rugs and chairs,
For I passed a house this morning that will alter nevermore
The woman's task was ended! There was crepe upon the door!

ABE MARTIN

"Oh, pshaw! Lindbergh's father wuz a congressman. Now I wonder why some busybody had t' tell that?" remarked Mrs. Tilford Moots, t'day. It's a wise bride that gits a leave o'absence instead o' givin' up her job.

Dr. Crane's Editorial

A meeting of college students solemnly took a vote the other day and decided against trial marriage by a majority of 16 against 7.

We are glad that this matter has been settled by these wise young men.

Dame Nature settled the question a long while ago.

Nobody who has even been genuinely in love is in favor of this trial marriage business. When a man or a woman is in love it is with one person.

All the songs and romantic sentiment have been made about true love and not about love which means merely desire.

The greatest sex problem, as Jane Adams has said, is to idealize love, to take it out of its carnal and bestial meaning and make it a spiritual thing.

True love outlasts passion.

It is the foundation of the family and readily assumes all the responsibilities thereof.

False love merely seeks gratification of desire. It makes for social disorder and irresponsibility.

A man who is genuinely in love with one woman supports her and takes care of their children. He regards her as an asset and not a liability, as a companion and not a slave. It is a responsibility he gladly undertakes and it becomes for him an inspiration and help.

All this talk about trial marriages is underlaid by a false idea of what love is. You will never get the lovers of the world to consent to indiscriminate relations. A woman wants a man for her very own and a man, since the beginning of time, wants a woman to be his peculiar property. Marceline d'Alroy, in one of her clever sketches, says that bad men are like cigarettes. You enjoy them for awhile and then throw them away, but good men are like pipes. When the fire goes out you knock them gently, but you put them in your pocket, and no man shares his pipe.

Monogamy is deeply rooted in nature. It prevails because human beings are essentially monogramous, and the nearer human laws approximate this ideal the more stable they are.

Decent folks, in spite of all the humor and wit that is sprinkled on the problem, prefer to stick to one man or woman and they prefer it because they get more pleasure out of it.

AMERICANISM: Feeling rather naked without at least one fountain pen in the breast pocket.

A bad cold seldom makes you unfit for work unless complicated by the fact that the team is playing at home.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

MAY THEIR TRIBE INCREASE. Wealth is such a relative term. Forty years ago a man who died and left an estate of a clear value of two hundred thousand dollars, was considered a wealthy man. Today in the United States, Payne Whitney dies, and leaves an estimated fortune of two hundred million dollars, and the Nation hardly lifts an eyebrow, except casually to wonder that if Payne Whitney's estate is worth two hundred million, what is Harry Payne Whitney's worth.

Henry E. Huntington dies and it is found that prior to his death he has given away a library and art gallery conservatively estimated in dollars and cents to be worth fifty million dollars, and endowed the gift with another twenty million, and the American Press only mentions it casually. Henry E. Huntington left an estate variously estimated anywhere from one hundred to two hundred million dollars in addition to this princely gift.

The citizens of the United States have been called "Dollar Chasers." The diplomacy of its Government has been called "Dollar Diplomacy." Even so, thus far, the men of America have been given a very much uncontrolled hand in the accumulation of wealth. Opportunities for the accumulation of wealth within the Nation have been legion, and it seems that thousands of Americans have taken advantage of them. Have the rich men of America abused their privileges? I think not. In the getting of their wealth they have assisted thousands and thousands of others by offering to them opportunities for the accumulation of things worth while. For every dollar that the rich man has earned and leaves behind him, there have been thousands of dollars distributed for work and materials spent in the building up of that great fortune. The methods which the wealthy men of America are using in the distribution of their estates as evidenced by their wills, should be very gratifying to all citizens of the Republic. Universities, hospitals, museums, libraries, art galleries, all the things worth while to aid civilization in its onward march, have become the beneficiaries of these fortunes.

The Huntingtons, the Whitneys, the Dukes, the Munseys, the Sterlings, and the Harknesses, and the many others have left their immediate families sufficient wealth to live in the manner to which they have been accustomed, and that is right. They have also left much more to all those things worth while.

May the Envious, the Covetous, and the Unsuccessful Citizens never be able to obstruct the wheels of Commerce so that other fortunes may not be earned and distributed in like manner!

A USEFUL LIFE—

Is always to be preferred to a life of thrills.
Is never a complacent life.
Always finds a readier market than a bluff.
Is certain to be rich in friendships.
Is better religion than long prayers.
Is often complimented by the enemies it makes.
Is the surest way to win the favor of God.

Bible Thought For Today

THE LORD'S DOINGS:—I waited patiently for the Lord; and he heard my cry. He brought me up also out of a horrible pit, and set my feet upon a rock. And he hath put a new song in my mouth, even praise unto our God: many shall see it, and fear, and shall trust in the Lord. Psalm 40:1-3.

PRAYER:—This is the Lord's doings and it is marvelous in our eyes.

PUZZLES

As a boy, I was never much interested in puzzles. This may not have been due to my temperamental unfitness for working puzzles, and I am now inclined to think it was not. It is far more likely that my lack of interest in puzzles was due to the fact that there were so many hogs to feed, so many cattle to pump water for, and so many weeds to pull out of the potato patch, that there was little time for puzzles.

There were puzzles in the old numbers of the Farm and Fireside, carfully preserved in an upstairs closet. But there were also some very interesting articles there about Thoreau and Bryant and other wonderful persons, and when there was time to spend with old magazines, it seemed natural to use the time reading these interesting articles, rather than working puzzles.

When the cross-word puzzle fad struck this country, I found myself out of the current. I worked one of the things, just to see whether I could do it, and stopped short. It could be done, I found, and so I was satisfied to do it once. Many of my friends got great pleasure, and no small amount of dictionary training, out of the cross-words. I had to be content with something else.

But now I have fallen a victim to these little semi-mechanical puzzles that one finds in toy stors. One of them contains five small celluloid rings that you are asked to slip on to a cat's tail, all under glass in a small box. Another have five small rings that you are to slip over five short pegs, each ring on a definite peg, indicated by color. There are small steel balls to be put in outlandish holes, and a terror that has one steel ball to be placed in the center of a nicely balanced little bridge.

I buy these puzzles "for the children," and then sit on the floor for hours, pretending to be showing the children how to work them. In reality, I am having the time of my life, working puzzles.

Perhaps I should have done all this when a boy, and thus got it out of my system.

Is the time spent on puzzles wasted? I wish some reader would tell me, clearly and convincingly. I confess that I'm a bit conscience stricken about it.

Battle Follows Prison Mutiny

Eleven Kansas Prisoners Are Now In Solitary Confinement

(International News Service)

LANSING, Kan., June 22.—Eleven prisoners were in solitary confinement and others under heavy guard today following a riot in Kansas state prison last night which climaxed a mutiny in the prison coal mine. Three hundred and twenty-eight prisoners were barricaded in the mine and were holding 14 guards.

With the ultimatum "no cigarets, no coal," the prisoners barricaded themselves and the underground mutiny was followed by a battle above ground. One prisoner was wounded.

Order was restored on the surface after several hours' demonstration and Acting Warden Hudspeth gave orders to "starve 'em out below."

Miss Martin said in her letter that she had gone to see the plane America which is heavily guarded by police. However, the police allowed her to get close to the plane which is to be flown by Richard F. Byrd.

Ex-Service Men Enjoying Picnic

Western Pennsylvania Gathering At Conneaut Lake Today

Ex-service men of Lawrence county and the surrounding counties of Western Pennsylvania are bound for Conneaut Lake today to attend the first annual picnic of ex-service men which is being held there today. The picnic is being sponsored by the Perry S. Gaston Post of the American Legion.

For some weeks committees have been working with Post Commander Harry M. Long and District Deputy Commander P. J. Dempsey. For one day Conneaut Lake is given over to the ex-service men and their families and something is listed for all afternoon and evening. A long list of prizes has been donated for the athletic events and these will be competed for this afternoon. Dancing will occupy the evening.

The picnic today is expected to be an annual event. Weather conditions are favorable and the park should be crowded as the men who served with the military forces of the United States enjoy a holiday with their families.

Major General Fries, chief of the Chemical Warfare Department of the United States army is the speaker of the day.

Making Big Change At Cathedral Site

Entire Property Surrounding Cathedral Is Being Graded

Appearance of the grounds surrounding the Scottish Rite Cathedral on Lincoln and Highland avenues is being greatly beautified.

In addition to providing for the rounding of the corner at the Lincoln-Highland extremity of the property the entire plot of ground surrounding the cathedral is being graded and planted in grass. In addition sod has been placed on a greater part of he terrace so that already a nice green lawn is provided for a part of the property.

Completion of the grading will mark one of the biggest improvements in the property that could be forecasted and already has made a wonderful change in appearance of the site.

Allegheny College Makes New Rule On Junior Class Entry

MEADVILLE, Pa., June 22.—Under a new system of instruction adopted by Allegheny College faculty and effective next September, only those lower classmen who have completed successfully their required college work in competition with fellow students will be privileged to enter the junior class. Upon the plan the student after he has had two years' training in Allegheny will be revaluated at the finish of the sopohomore year.

Seventy-five per cent of the second year men may be admitted to the junior class, with promotion being made primarily upon the basis of scholarship during the previous year in college. A special vote of the faculty may change the percentage of advancing the student.

Wallace On Trial On Serious Charge By Pulaski Girl

Miss Glendora McClintic Tells About Auto Trip Taken Against Her Will

Pulaski was well represented at court today in the trial of Robert Wallace, a young man of that vicinity, who is charged with assaulting Glendora McClintic, aged 14, a member of one of the families of Pulaski.

Miss McClintic testified that she was on a street in Pulaski in company with another young woman, when Wallace drew up in a car and asked her to accompany him for a ride. She refused to go, whereupon she claims that Wallace grabbed her by the arm, attempting to pull her into the car. A young man named Burnside was in the car with Wallace when it stopped, but got out. While Wallace was pulling at her arm to get her into the car, she claims that Burnside seized her by the legs, and the two of them lifted her into the car.

Wallace then drove off with Miss McClintic. She said that she tried to get hold of the horn of the machine, but that it would not blow. Wallace drove into a field, near a cemetery on the Pulaski-West Middlesex road, where the alleged assault was committed. Miss McClintic exhibited the clothing which she had worn, showing where it had been torn in the struggle.

When Wallace drove back to Pulaski he drove to the back of the McClintic home, where he let Miss McClintic out, it was stated. She ran into the house and told her parents what had happened. Constable Knox was at the McClintic home, as some one had told the parents about the young woman's having been taken away and they summoned him. Miss McClintic was taken to a physician who gave strong testimony at the trial today. Witnesses were called to corroborate Miss McClintic as to the manner in which she had been placed in the Wallace car.

The case is still on trial.

New Playground Proves Popular

Sheep Hill District Playground Attracting Throng Of Children

The city playground in the rear of the Polish church in the Sheep Hill district, which was opened for the first time on Monday, June 20, is enjoying great success so far, according to Miss Margaret Tucker, instructor there.

The Polish school which is held in the church is still in session and will not be dismissed for the summer session until next Friday. This takes the majority of the children who attend the playground away, although they come in large numbers in the evening after school has been dismissed for the day.

On Monday the school was dismissed all day to allow the children to attend the opening exercises of the playground. Yesterday it was dismissed at 10 a. m. but today it was in session full time. Most of the children who attend the playground also attend this school.

There were about 300 children and adults at the opening day exercises. With this number present it is apparent that the people of that section are interested in it.

The various amusements at the grounds are as follows: volley ball courts, basketball courts, horseshoe courts, baseball diamond and a golf course. Other things of interest to the children will soon be installed such as, swings, slides and see-saws. The children are very anxious to have the latter three installed.

Industrial work will be carried on among the children of the various playgrounds as soon as the different ones are organized better. Miss Elizabeth Mackey has charge of this work.

Miss Tucker says that she is planning for baseball, golf and volley ball tournaments later. A champion baseball team will be secured from every playground, then the champions of each section will play each other for the city playground championship. Ribbons will be awarded the winning team.

All of these playgrounds will be open for ten weeks, she states. The hours are 9 a. m. to 12 noon and 1 p. m. to 5 p. m.

"The children are very nice and orderly at this playground. Even the parents are interested in it. They come and watch the children at their play and seem amused," says Miss Tucker.

When the industrial work is commenced, Miss Mackey will be at the playground three days every week, on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

This playground just opened this year appears to be one of the best attractions for the children in this section for years.

It won't be hard for the graduate to begin at the bottom. He's almost at the bottom of Dad's pocketbook now.

Winter Leads Scouts In Camp

First-Year Lad At Camp Makes Record On Tuesday

OTHER NEWS OF CAMP PHILLIPS

George Winter led the scouting in John M. Phillips camp Tuesday with 95 honor points to his credit. His record is still more remarkable on account of this being his first year in camp. George started in as soon as he arrived in camp. He was the first scout of the period to get into the woods and identify leaves of trees and shrubs. He rendered what service he could to the camp and passed his scouting tests.

Junior Brown came second in honor points by scoring 60. Harold Charbonnier, John Hancher, Harold Aggas and Ferris Hartley ranked thirds in points with 50 apiece.

These honor points are part of a system known as the scalp system of camping and scouting points. The system is based upon Indian names and signs, for the Indians are the masters of wood craft and camping.

"Kit Carson" Wins First Inspection

Stockade "Kit" Carson, which is made up of mostly Ellwood boys won the first camp inspection Tuesday. Scouts belonging to this stockade were successful in winning the initial inspection, because they took special effort to have their hut neat, and performed additional service around the grounds of their stockade.

Scouts Enjoy Newspapers.

Owing to the generosity of Fred L. Rentz and Jacob Rentz of The News Company, the scouts are enjoying the evening newspaper. William Ayers brings these papers to the camp each evening. There are enough papers for each hut and the camp staff. All the scouts have united in a vote of thanks to their benefactors, The News Company.

Cheer Cooks.

Mrs. Will Ayers and Mrs. J. Lee Calahan who are the camps culinary artists were surprised when the scouts lauded their efforts in providing food for the large appetites, with three rousing cheers for the kitchen force.

First Swim.

A new swimming hole has been provided for the scouts, due to the courtesy of Dan Miller of the Miller camp at Brush Run on the Slippery Rock creek. Nicholas R. Casillo, and Bob Fields superintended the erection of a new swimming pier at the Miller camp.

Scouts enjoyed their first swim under the direction of Mr. Casillo Tuesday. They found a new swimming hole, a newly painted boat and a new course in swimming.

PETERS ADVENTURES IN ANIMAL LAND

By Florence Smith Vincent

DRINKING IN THE UNDERWORLD

Suddenly and without a word the Mole began to open and shut his mouth, and so quickly that Peter grew uneasy.

"What is the matter, Matty?" asked he. "Dear me, I hope you are not going to be sick. I wouldn't know what to do for you, and how in the world could I get out of the fortress?"

"Couldn't!" declared the Mole, and then he grinned.

"Never saw a thirsty Mole before, did you?" asked he. "That is what is the matter with me. My throat is parched. I can't think when I've gone so long without water before. I am not ill, but I do think that unless I get a drink pretty soon I shall die."

"Then by all means let's go after the water. But where will you find any down here? You'll have to go to the surface, won't you?"

"I should say not. There is no finer or fresher drinking water than in the underworld!" declared the Mole. "That is one of the first things that a young Mole learns to do—sink a pool in which to hold the moisture. When a well runs dry in Moledom it is considered a great disgrace, and its owner dies unless he digs another, for not a Mole would let him have a drink from his own precious store."

"How cruel!" exclaimed Peter.

"Not a bit of it!" contradicted the Boy's companion. "If anything is of value one takes care of it—if one doesn't then one deserves to lose it. Come on, follow me! Ah! It seems good to be in the street again. I haven't time to stop or I would take you in to call on Mother Mole—see, there she sits, in the doorway of her hillock. Fine little woman, Mrs. Mole! Builds her own home and takes care of her babies—sees that their beds are soft and that they have plenty to eat, does her share of digging and asks no help of anyone."

"What a cute little fellow—there—poking his nose around his mother! Of course, that is Baby Mole." Peter pointed at a little form in the doorway.

"That is one of them—there are four other little fellows in that hillock somewhere!" declared Matty. "Thank my paws! Here we are at the pool! Would you like a drink?"

THE WATER WAS AS CLEAR AND COLD AS THOUGH IT HAD BEEN DRAWN FROM A WELL.

"I certainly would," replied Peter.

"Then help yourself," said Matty, and so the Boy got down upon his knees, cupped his hands and drank from them, and the water was as clear and cold as if it had just been drawn from a well. As for Matty, he poked his snout into the crystal pool and drank long and heartily.

"Aha!" cried he at last, when he had drunk his fill. "Now I feel better. Nothing like a drink to put a fellow in good spirits."

"I didn't know how thirsty I was until I took my first swallow," laughed the Boy; then he jumped to his feet.

"And now I really must be going. Will you show me the way out, Matty? I have had a wonderful trip through the underworld, but I have an engagement this evening and I must not be late."

"That's the right idea! Always be on time when you can," agreed Mole heartily. "You'll excuse me for not going all the way to the surface. I only go above ground when I have to, except at noon. At 12 o'clock I poke my nose up for a breath of pure air. Here's the short cut up—no turns, no cross paths. Keep right on going, and before you know it out you will pop into the sunlight. Goodbye and good luck! I'll stay right here until I am sure you are out. When you reach the exit just give me a call."

Next: "On Familiar Ground Again."

Are you fighting against middle-age?

ONE OF the most critical periods of a woman's life comes between 45 and 50. Most women dread the approach of middle-age because they know, only too well, the depressing ailments it brings.

The best preparation for this period a woman can have is a good physical condition. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help her to gain strength and energy. It builds up the appetite and induces natural sleep. The following letters were written by women of middle-age.

AFTER LONG SUFFERING

South Omaha, Nebraska:— "After fifteen years of terrible suffering each month with sick headaches I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I have felt my health steadily improving. After taking your medicine for almost a year and a half, I believe I can say the headaches have left me. I also was troubled with nervousness. I am feeling fine now and do all my work myself. I am the mother of six, and manage an eight-room house without anybody to help. I feel that I am entirely well." Mrs. Adolph Bratke, 4316 South 13th St., So. Omaha, Nebraska.

Remember this package. None genuine without the signature of Lydia E. Pinkham.

MRS. BOLLERMAN'S CASE

West Hoboken, N. J.:— "I was troubled with headaches, weakness, flushes of heat to the face and head and loss of appetite. I would often get so weak I could hardly stand. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and began to take the medicine. After the first few bottles I began to feel stronger and could eat better and had fewer headaches. I am a well woman today, and feel like a different person. You may use this letter for every word is true. I will answer any letters sent to me." Unkept Hands Spoil Entire Effect

Every woman should have soft, white, youthful hands to complete the picture of daintiness expected of her.

While eating, dancing, playing cards, in fact, whatever you do, your hands are noticed as much as your complexion. You can't neglect them without spoiling the impression you make by being well groomed in every other detail.

The easiest way to keep your hands soft, white and firm is to massage them with the dainty lotion you can make by simply squeezing the juice of two lemons into a bottle of Orchard White, which you can get from your nearest dealer. It clears and refines the skin, making toil-worn and stained hands look like a queen's.

Work Is Started On Croton School

Improving Of Public School At Croton Is Now Under Way

Work of improving the Croton school, for which contracts were awarded some time ago, has just started. The first group of workmen arrived at the school Friday to begin work.

Not much has been accomplished as yet, although the men from the R. T. Withers Sons Company have torn out many parts of the old furnace to make way for the new steam heater to be installed. A complete new heating system will be put in the school building.

Outside of the building men are excavating dirt from around the basement windows to allow more light to enter. An entrance to the basement from the outside will also be constructed. A place for a coal bin in the basement is also being prepared. The basement is being enlarged by the installation of the new heater and the new plumbing work, so that classes can be held there.

A new toilet system is being constructed by workmen from the Stevenson Company. The basement is already torn up for the laying of new pipe and the like.

The improvement work should be completed about September 5, in order to have the school ready for the start of the school term.

Work on the second floor improvements has not yet started. On this floor there will be three additional classrooms installed and a teachers' rest room.

What Is the Biggest Selling Popular Medicine In the World?

The answer is easy—Kruschen Salts, of course. Millions take it daily, not because they are sick; mind you, but because the little daily dose of Kruschen keeps them well and fit and energetic.

People who take two tablets of Kruschen Salts in hot water or in their coffee every morning (tasteless that way) don't have headaches, are always free from constipation, depression, dizziness, coated tongue and unpleasant breath.

They have no poisons in their systems—the action of Kruschen Salts on the liver, kidneys and bowels causes perfect elimination.

If you want joyous health and glorious vigor try taking Kruschen Salts every day. It isn't a purgative or cathartic, or even a laxative, but after two weeks use you wont have any further use for slam bang medicines—your bowels will be regular. 60 tablets 60 cents. It's the little daily dose that does it. Good health for a trifle a day. Get them at Eckerd's of New Castle, New Castle Drug Co. or any live druggist anywhere in the world.

POLICE FIGHT CHEAP MURDERS

It's the low cost of murders that's worrying police throughout the country today. In Cleveland, O., where a bootleg war is being waged, police say the sum demanded by gangsters for a killing has been reduced from $50 to $25. With the decrease of illicit liquor flowing into the city and a corresponding increase in the number of private stills, members of the big bootlegging "rings" find it necessary to hire gunmen to keep the "independents" from encroaching on their territory. Above, is one of the most dangerous corners in the country, Woodland Ave. and E. 25th St., in Cleveland, otherwise called the "bloody corner," scene of several bootleg murders. Prison Mine Mutiny Still In Progress

Prisoners Will Be Starved Out Of Mine, Declares Warden

(International News Service)

LANSING, Kan., June 22—Three hundred and twenty eight prisoners who barricaded themselves in a prison mine at Kansas state penitentiary last night, today were left to "use their own judgment" about coming out. The convicts, detailed to underground work, mutinied when refused cigarets.

Fourteen prison guards were overpowered and an ultimatum sent out. "No cigarets, no coal."

"The can stay until they get ready to eat," acting warden R. H. Hudspeth, declared today and added he intended to starve the prisoners out. "They can use their own judgment," he said.

Meanwhile eleven prisoners above ground were in solitary confinement and many others under heavy guard following a prison riot which climaxed the mutiny below ground. One prisoner was wounded.

The prisoners in the cell houses also took up the cry "no cigarets, no work, no peace!"

Acting Warden Hudspeth reported all quiet today and a policy of "watchful waiting" adopted to bring the prisoners in the mine "to time."

Today the prisoners were being questioned closely to ascertain who was responsible for a plot to set fire to the twine factory within the walls. Prison officials were in possession of three knives and firebrands were taken from prisoners after the riot in the prison yards. Plans had been made, according to guards, to set the twine factory on fire and effect a wholesale escape.

J. F. Thomas, a prison guard, was suffering today from two slight rifle wounds. The injured prisoner, whose name was withheld, suffered from gunshot wounds. Shotguns were used for the first time in quelling a prison disturbance. Guards ordinarily are armed only with clubs.

A wholesale prison break has been brewing for several months, prison officials today declared they were convinced. The mine mutiny, they believe merely was "pulled off" to distract overhead a general outbreak could be engineered.

Officials declared they quelled last night's prison yard plot so quickly that rebelling convicts in the mines had no time to come to the aid of the rioters.

Repeated calls today are being made to the convicts in the mine over prison telephones. No one answers. The electricity has been turned off and carbide lights are the only illumination the convicts have.

Water will not be cut off, it was said, because of the hardship it would work on the imprisoned guards.

It is believed the guards are held in the mule stables. In the mutiny a year ago a dozen guards were so incarcerated.

No violence is feared. The guards are armed only with clubs.

Crude Oil Report Displays Increase

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 22—Crude oil production in the United States established a new high record in the week ended June 18, when the daily average output was 2,509,650 barrels, an increase of 11,200 barrels over the week before, according to an estimate issued today by the American Petroleum Institute. Union Workmen In Dispute At 'The Castleton'

Organizations In Controversy Over Who Will Do Certain Task

Union workmen employed on The Castleton have got into a dispute among themselves as to who should do certain work of installing metal window stools, as a result of which the carpenters bundled up their tools and walked out today. It is claimed that they were called out by an international officer.

The metal window stools around which the dispute centers take the place of marble and also form a plaster ground. Fobes and Haven have the contract for plastering and the metal lathers and plasters claim that it is a part of their work to install the stools.

The Jurisdictional Board of Awards which is supposed to designate what work shall be done by each set of men, have awarded the work to sheet metal workers and has offered to put them on the job. This is not satisfactory to some of the other trades.

The carpenters want to do the work, but if they do, the plasterers and metal lathers will walk out. Since it is being done by the lathers and plasterers the carpenters have walked out.

Two of the floors are already gone and the work for the other floors would take but a short time no matter who does it. There is no question of wages involved, the whole trouble being the inability of the diferent trades about who should do the work.

All of the other workmen with the exception of the carpenters are still at work on the job.

Letter Threat Under Door Of Tailoring Shop

L. Mucci, North street tailor, as a result of advertising a special price concession for a short time, in order to stimulate business, this morning found himself threatened with violence, evidently by or at the instigation of a competitor in the same line of business.

Mr. Mucci put advance notice of the price cut for pressing clothing Tuesday. This morning, when he opened up his place of business, he found a plain envelope under his door. Inside the envelop on a small piece of pencil paper and both written and printed, was a letter threatening Mucci with bodily harm, in which it was stated that the writer had been hired to chastise him for cutting prices and giving him a brief period in which to raise the price. A post script was to the effect that he was met on the street he might be shot.

Mucci turned the matter over to the police authorities and they are investigating. There is a suspect in the case, according to Mucci.

Chamberlin Sends Information To Commander Byrd

Tells American Flier What To Avoid In Trans-Atlantic Hop

BY H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

VIENNA, June 22.—Clarence D. Chamberlin, pilot of the American monoplane Columbia which flew from New York to Saxony, Germany, without a stop, today offered, through International News Service, the benefit of his trans-Atlantic experiences to Commander Richard E. Byrd.

Chamberlin sent the following telegram to Commander Byrd via International News Service:

"If my experience could be of any help to you would suggest you arrange to get local European weather forecasts from the Hamburg weather bureau.

"It is important to avoid fog here on account of the mountains you will encounter if you are aiming to go to central Europe. If your pilot has instruments to fly blind indefinitely I do not advise trying to climb through high fogs as we wasted much time and gas in doing that.

"Also from our experience we learned that the trans-Atlantic flyer is able to obtain better data for cooperation from local aviation and weather organizations if the organizations from which such information is sought is informed of the approximate destination of the flyer.

"Good weather at the start and at the finish is the thing that is most needed.

"The best of luck to you and our hope is that our European itineries shall cross".

Funeral Services For Mrs. Griffin

Highly Esteemed Woman Of Bessemer Laid To Rest In Lake Park Cemetery, Youngstown

Funeral services for Mrs. Frances A. Griffin, wife of P. W. Griffin of Bessemer were held Sunday June 19, at 2 p. m. from the Presbyterian church of Bessemer. Rev. W. J. Engle of Bessemer conducted the services assisted by the Rev. Harry E. Woods of Sharpsville. Interment was made in Lake Park cemetery, Youngstown, O.

Mrs. Griffin was born in Orwell, O., may 20, 1877, being the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Addicott. She was graduated from the Orwell high school in 1896 and afterward attended the New Lyme Institute. For several years she was a teacher in the public schools in and around Orwell.

In August, 1900, she was united in marriage to P. W. Griffin, also a resident of Orwell. They resided in Orwell for some time where he was a successful teacher in the Orwell public school.

They lived in Warren, O., for a short time and came to Bessemer in 1905, where they have since made their home and have taken an active part in the church, the schools and the affairs of the community.

In early life she united with the Presbyterian church and had ever since been an untiring worker in the various organizations of the church. She was one of the 33 members who organized the First Presbyterian church of Bessemer, Pa., in 1911 where she had since devoted much of her time and strength to the growth of the church and where she will be greatly missed.

To Mr. and Mrs. Griffin were born six children. Marion, now Mrs. Gerald Nord of New Wilmington, Pa., a daughter who died in infancy and Kenneth, Robert, Frances and Percy who are still at the family home.

Mr. Griffin and his five children together with three brothers and three sisters and legions of friends are left to mourn the loss of a devoted wife and mother, a loving sister and a true and loyal friend.

She will long be remembered for her sunny smile, her kind and loving disposition and her consecrated life.

Mrs. Griffin died in her home in Bessemer Pa. Wednesday June 15 1927 at 3 p. m.

Mr. Coolidge's vacation equipment is complete, and we hope the Mrs. didn't forget to put in the wire pullers.

Pittsburgh Police Search For Robber In Butler Hold-up

Squire Lorch Of Allison Park Halts Two Bandits With Bullets, Third Escapes

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, June 22.—Posses today continued the search for a third bandit who escaped yesterday after Squire Albert T. Lorch, Allison Park, brought down two companions with expert pistol marksmanship, and arrested the pair. The trio was said to have robbed a Butler, Pa., gasoline filling station, and attempted to kidnap a state highway patrolman.

The posses scoured the woods of Hampden and Pine townships throughout the night, with no success. A wider range was expected to be covered today in the attempt to locate the missing fugitive.

Meanwhile, city police here were keeping a close watch on the home of the third man, said by his companions to live in this city.

The two wounded men were brought down by Squire Lorch after an eight mile chase in which the squire underwent a heavy barrage at the hands of the speeding bandit car.

When the occupants turned the car into an open field, and became stuck in a mudhole, they attempted to escape by running, but the expert marksmanship of the justice of the peace halted the flight of two with as many shots from his pistol.

The wounded men gave their names as Mike Fradie, 22, Pittsburgh; Steve Zaker, 19, Wheeling. They said their companion was George Brown, 24, Pittsburgh.

Neither of the injured men was in a serious condition.

Druggists Are In Convention

State Gathering Is Under Way At Buena Vista Springs

(International News Service)

BUENA VISTA SPRINGS, Pa., June 22.—Pennsylvania's druggists are in line to win back their prestige as technicians and chemists as a result of the drug store ownership law passed by the last session of the state legislature, according to Joseph W. England, of Philadelphia, president of the Pennsylvania Pharmaceutical Association, holding its fiftieth annual session here.

The association today considered business matters and held informal discussions of England's speech, in which he lauded the new law as "probably the most important pharmacy law ever enacted by the state."

The law confines ownership of pharmacies and drug stores to registered pharmacists. This is a blow at stores whose main mission is to sell merchandise, and who handle drugs and practice pharmacy only as a side issue, England said.

In Day's News

Major Gen. Benjamin A. Poore, who goes on the retired list of the U. S. Army today on account of age, leaves behind him a brilliant record of service in many parts of the United States, Alaska, China, the Philippines, and with the army of occupation in Germany. As brigadier-general he had the distinction of being almost the only officer of his rank to be cited more than once for personal bravery during the fighting in France and Flanders. Gen. Poore is a native of Alabama but grew up in Massachusetts. He was appointed to West Point from the last-named State and was graduated in the same class as General Pershing. At Bois de Septsarges, France, Gen. Poore personally reformed his disorganized troops, who were falling back through lack of command because of severe casualties. Under heavy fire he led them to the lines and presented an unbroken front to the enemy.

Frederick On Trial For Holcomb Crime

Shooting In Warren Postoffice Is Cause Of Murder Trial In Cleveland

CLEVELAND, O., June 22.—"I thought he was going to shoot me, so I reached for a gun and started to shoot. What happened after that I don't remember," Ernest Frederick, Warren (O.) gunsmith, and former steel plant executive, testified yesterday before Federal Judge Paul Jones, where he is on trial for first-degree murder for shooting Walter Holcomb.

He shot Holcomb, a Warren merchant, he accused of breaking up his home, in the lobby of the Warren postoffice, Feb., 28, before nearly a dozen witnesses.

The details on which Frederick testified his mind is a blank were related by other witnesses yesterday, however.

Boy Falls Off Velocipede In Front Of Auto

Mrs. Helen C. Urmson of 333 Berger Place, reported Tuesday evening that she was driving south on Centennial street between Lincoln and Wallace avenue, when a five year old boy, the son of F. D. Armstrong of Wallace avenue, who was riding a Velocipede on the sidewalk lost control of it and ran out on the street with it.

Mrs. Urmson stopped the automobile she was driving and when she got out, the boy was lying on the ground and the velocipede was in front of her machine.

According to Mrs. Urmson, her machine did not strike the boy or his velocipede. His spill in the street was due to loss of control of his velocipede.

The boy immediately got up and ran home crying. He is not thought to have sustained serious injuries.

Second Day Of Wool Pooling Successful

About 15,000 Pounds Of Wool Taken In; Fleeces Of Fine Quality

All of Lawrence County's farmers, with the exception of five townships, pooled their wool at the store house on Moravia street Tuesday where W. B. Connell, sheep and wool specialist from State College, graded it. The wool taken in Tuesday amounted to 15,000 pounds and was of the medium wool grades. Mr. Connell repeats that this is the best wool pool ever held here, the grades being the best ever taken in. He finds that the Lawrence county farmer is taking more interest in his wool, having a desire to pool the higher grade wools.

The program today includes the five townships not included in yesterday's program and all of Beaver county. The wool from Beaver will be of the very fine quality. Some of the men bringing their fleeces from Beaver will journey as far as from ten miles beyond the Ohio River.

This afternoon marks the close of the wool pool and will no doubt prove to be a very successful one. The entire weight of wool taken in, along with the high poolers will be given following the close of the store house.

Mitchell's Latest Outbreak Indicates He's Still A Power

By CHARLES P. STEWART.
Exclusive Central Press Dispatch To New Castle News.

WASHINGTON, June 22—Military men had an idea that ex-Colonel "Billy" Mitchell had subsided.

Has anybody forgotten who Col. Billy is?

He was the army's assistant aviation chief under Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick until a couple of years ago. His job carried a brigadier general's rank but his regular army title was "colonel."

He was a good officer, too. Everybody liked him . . . until—

All at once, out of a clear sky, he announced that aviation was the "whole thing"—armies and navies were obsolete.

* * *

This made the war department pretty middling sore, but it made the navy still sorer, because Mitchell said rougher things about the navy than he did about the army—not that he was sparing of either of 'em.

Navy sentiment however reacted on the army, which didn't like having one of its own men abusing the sister service.

Mitchell's superior's told him to "hush up"—did it preemptorily.

Thereupon Mitchell fired such a broadside that the department windows rattled with it. He used words like "criminal."

The general impression was that he wanted to be court martialled. He was, anyway. They found him guilty and he resigned—in a blaze of glory, so far as aviation enthusiasts were concerned and a volley of cuss words from the bulk of army and navy folks.

Such an exit from the service would have been the ruin of most military officers, but Mitchell has a fat bank roll—which Billy may not have been unmindful of when he invited the thunderbolt—so he simply retired to his estate at Middleburg, Va., and has been living there ever since, waiting for a good chance, it appears to chuck another ton or two of high explosives.

He remained inactive so long that Washington had about decided he really was chastened—permanently.

Only a few days before his latest outbreak one of the war department officials told me his old comrades were beginning to be rather sorry for Billy—had come to the conclusion he was well-meaning; only over-enthusiastic; a few still wanted to burn him alive, but most of them were willing to let bygones be bygones.

Right on the heels of this, out came Mitchell with his charge that the navy had deliberately allowed Charlie Lindbergh's plane, the Spirit of St. Lous to go flooey, so Charley couldn't fly it from Washington to New York for his celebration there.

And why?

To block the progress of aviation. To prove that nobody could fly across the ocean without putting his plane on the blink. The navy did it on purpose.

So Mitchell said.

To be sure Charlie instantly came across with a clean bill of health for the navy.

But that didn't take the curse of from what Mitchell had said. He has a big following, which is bound to believe him. The navy folk know that. They know, too that there'll be a lot of believers in his statement that the navy didn't try to help Commander Byrd on his flight to the North Pole, but did try to grab off the credit when Byrd accomplished it.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy Robinson's answer will be duly noted—"Mitchell didn't know what he was talking about and wouldn't tell the truth about it if he did."

Assistant secretaries of the navy don't make such remarks unless they're a wee bit hot under the collar.

As for the war department gang—a family newspaper couldn't print what they say.

Billy Mitchell extinct!—like Vesuvius!

WAS PUNISHED EVERY TIME

"For several years I suffered from catarrh. Beginning in a small way it spread through my whole body, checking its activities. Finally my stomach got so bad I had to nurse it all the time, and was punished every time I ate good solid food.

Worried About the Kids

"Of course my work suffered. I thought I would have to give up my job, and what to become of mother and the kids worried me all the time. Then one evening I heard of Health Evangelist Dyar's talks. Its good sense appealed to me so strongly that I took home a bottle of World's Tonic. I began to feel better in three days, and kept right on getting better, until in about four weeks I knew I was well. You can't imagine the relief. I stopped worrying, got to work with real pep, and have no signs whatever of catarrh. That's why I recommend World's Tonic to everybody now."

ALEX OTT,
6th Ave., Beaver Falls, Pa.

You may have the same experience. World's Tonic is sold by Mckee's Kut Rate Store, Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., Paisley's, Smith's and all other reliable druggists.

Make Suggestions To County Farmers

Farm Bureau Aids Given For Lawrence County Farmers This Summer

Among the suggestions made by the school of Agriculture of the Pennsylvania State College are many of interest to poultrymen, dairymen and fruit growers.

To poultrymen they suggest to provide roosts for chicks at 3 weeks of age. Remove cockerels when eight weeks old or sooner, clean brooder house and move to clean area twice a week, keep liquid milk before the chicks or feed a mash containing 40 per cent dried milk, and as soon as the breeding season is over take the old rooster away from the flock.

To dairymen the suggestion is made to cut hay for dairy cows early as it contains more milk-producing power and is more palatable than when cut later.

To those who are accustomed to make exhibits the suggestion is made that now is the time to plan the exhibits, remembering the points on which the exhibits were marked down last year and try to eliminate them this year.

To the fruit grower they suggest to thin the apple trees of their heavy load of fruit. Trees with light crops and on fertile ground may not need thinning but others will improve the quality of their fruit by thinning the crop out. Climbing vines need careful attention and training in the early stages of their growth. Treatment is especially important with hardy types. For definite details in any line farmers are referred to their county agent. Harold C. McCulloch of 323 S. Croton avenue is the county agent for Lawrence county. The telephone of the Farm Bureau is 2972.

Lawrence county is the latest county to be added to the list of counties which are free from bovine tuberculosis and is now considered one of the "modified accredited counties" according to word from the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

Five other counties have been added to the credited list during the past year. They are Butler, Cameron, Clearfield, Indiana and McKean. Those which have been accredited more than a year are Mercer, Crawford and Jefferson. Thus Lawrence county is added to the block in this part of the state that makes the largest piece of accredited territory in the state.

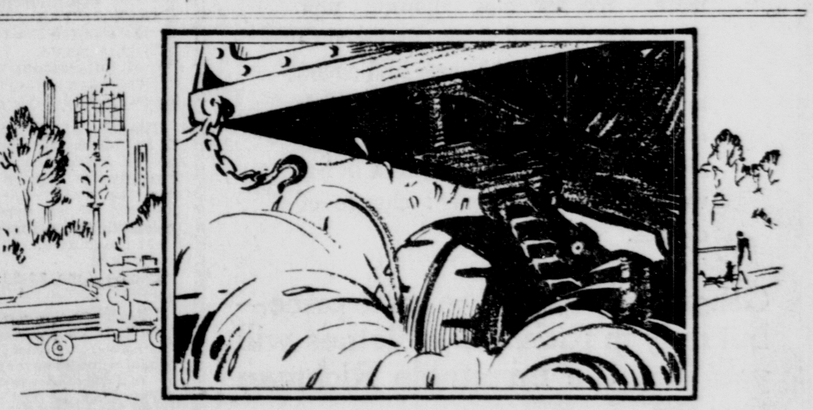
Men Will Cook Church Dinner

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, June 22.—A novel feature of the fish dinner that is to be held at the United Presbyterian church here Friday evening is the fact that the men of the church are to trade places with their wives and perform the duties of cooks. The men of the church who have been worrying over the scarcity of funds in the treasury decided that the time for worry was past and that action on their part is needed. Hence the fish dinner Friday evening which advertises "Expert Chef in Charge."

University students say two can live on $2,000 a year. Many a grocer and wife, feeding people like that live, on less.



What Destroys Paving and How Brick Resists It

Weather and traffic-wear destroy pavements not specifically designed to resist them. Unless by their very nature waterproof, pavement surfaces absorb moisture or let it enter through tiny cracks, caused by changing atmospheric conditions. There, freezing and expanding, water increases the damage. Traffic pounding soon finishes the destruction.

Paving brick being vitrified is unchanging. It can't soften under heat; tire chains cannot injure it; it cannot absorb water. Bound with asphalt, water can't get through the surface either. Laid with a resilient sand cushion, brick makes a surface that fully protects the base from traffic shocks. Man does not make a tougher, denser, more utterly durable paving material.

Engineers will confirm these facts. Records will show that brick makes the cheapest of all pavements for roads or streets.

"The A. B. C. of Good Paving," a taxpayer's manual, tells in words and pictures how engineers today build ever-wearing, low cost, brick surfaced roads and streets. Address your request to National Paving Brick Manufacturers Association, 332 South Michigan Boulevard, Chicago.

New Bath Houses Are Now Ready In College Town

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., June 22.—After having worked since the end of the college term, Jack Hulme, noted New Castle athlete and swimming star, has announced that the first lap of the playground building program here has been completed in the completion of the two new bathhouses along the creek. The rest of the program, which calls for a tennis court, a volley ball court and a general betterment of the swimming pool, is still in the offing. However, "Jack", helped by some of the New Wilmington Boy Scouts, is working hard and expects to be ready to announce a grand opening of the new playground soon.

With the completion of the two bathhouses so much enthusiasm is being shown that the boys who are helping "Jack" wish to camp on the job. As a result the "Little Neshannock" will soon look upon an array of tents along its banks.

Burns Rubbish Late Without A Permit

Firemen Are Called To Fight Big Blaze At Center Street Property

Firemen were called to the property of Nick Faella, 104 Center street, about 9:25 o'clock last night. The alarm sounded was 51. On their arrival at that place, the firemen found that the reported big blaze was in reality a bonfire in which people residing at that place were burning some old wall paper. The fire was burning at an hour prohibited, even where a permit has been secured, and it was also found that no permit had been issued for that place.

Making Plans For Local Fair

Heads Of Committees For September Exhibition Are Announced

PREMIUM LIST IS ABOUT READY

Date announcement for the New Castle Fair was made today by Miss Kathryn L. Klee, of the Fair Association, as September 27, 28, 29 and 30. "The Premium List Catalogue is now being printed and around the first of July will be distributed to farmers throughout the county. Some 1500 of these will be handed from the press at this time.

Some active work has started on the making of plans for the fair. The Fair Grounds have been the scene of some active training of race horses. Some 40 head of fast steppers have been making the track their winter headquarters and are now being run through their paces in preparation for different race meets they will be entered in.

September 27, 1927, marks the opening of the eighth annual fair for New Castle. The local association has held its fair at such a late time, as it has been found far better than an early date in that the farmers have completed the harder part of their fall work and have time to prepare for their stock exhibits.

Professor Borland, an active stock judge from Pennsylvania State College, has stated for several years that the New Castle Fair has better and larger stock exhibits than any other fair held in the state of Pennsylvania.

R. R. McGeorge, of Wampum, secretary of speed, at the fair, stated today that all races would be entered this year as stake races, the entry list having closed on April 4, 1927, with every race filled. During the seven previous years of the fair the majority of the races were of the open class with only one or two staked races. Mr. McGeorge finds the new method very successful.

All members of the associations' board of directors are divided into different committees. Following is given the names of those acting as supervisors for committees:

R. R. McGeorge, Wampum—Insurance, speed, auditing and grange.

W. H. Atkinson, New Castle—Grounds.

A. E. McCreary, Volant—Farm and fruits, vegetables and honey.

J. J. Burns, New Castle—Purchasing, finance and premium.

James Ellis, New Castle, R. D. 9—Police and parking.

A. H. Fullerton, Edenburg—Dairy cattle.

Robert B. Stoner, Princeton—Beef cattle.

L. C. Curry, New Castle—Draft horses.

L. M. Reed, New Castle, R. D. No. 7—Hogs.

W. B. Cover, New Castle—Publicity, sheep, music and entertainment.

J. L. Burton, New Castle, R. D. No. 9.—Tickets and gate.

G. J. Forrest, New Castle—Transportation.

A. R. Turner, New Castle—Concessions.

McClure Hartsell, New Castle R. D. No. 9.—Poultry and Planning and building.

Say "King Ben" Wrote Statement Denouncing Wife

Dissolution Suit Against House Of David Is Still In Progress

By WILLIAM J. BUTLER.
International News Service Staff Correspondent

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., June 22.—A statement, alleged to be in "King" Benjamin Purnell's own handwriting, denouncing his wife "Queen" Mary, as a "deceitful reprobate" was introduced Tuesday at the state's dissolution suit against the House of David.

The statement was seized by state troopers when they raided the colony last November and arrested Purnell after four years hiding.

Capt. Ira Marmon of the state police, who headed the raiding party testified they found Purnell with two women followers only partially clothed in his bedroom the night they smashed in the doors.

On a table in Ben's room was found the document in which Purnell's wife "Queen" Mary and Francis Thrope, ex-secretary of the cult, are denounced.

Several witnesses in the suit have already connected Thrope and "Queen" Mary.

"Mary and Francis blame all the trouble on me and the girls" reads the statement. "The girls merely bring me food, and if I had to depend on them (Mary and Thrope) for it, the son of man would starve and then they would get control. Mary is a deceitful reprobate and never had the faith."

The statement disputes the repeated assertion of "King" Ben and "Queen" Mary and other cult officers that everything was serene, and that there was no split in the cult.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

BY MRS. MARY MORTON

MENU HINT

In a recent menu I used hard cooked eggs for the platter meal, instead of meat. I am submitting another platter dish with pork chops. Dishwashing in a hot kitchen is not a charming summer pastime, so the platter meals, which require but few dishes, are a boon. Many combinations may be worked out.

Molded Spinach
Pork Chop Plate Dinner
Cole Slaw Health Rolls
Tapioca-Banana Pie
Jelly Milk

TODAY'S RECIPES

Pork Chop Plate Dinner—Brown chops quickly in very little butter. Place in bottom of baking dish or roaster. Cover with rice, cooked until it is puffed, but not soft. Some use uncooked rice. Diced carrots, finely cut green pepper and a bit of onion. Season well. Pour over this a can of tomato soup and one of water. Cover. Bake two hours at 350 degrees. Uncover and brown the last 15 minutes.

To serve, place spinach mound in center of plate, garnish with thin slices of lemon and paprika. Around this place chops, each one covered with vegetables and rice. At edge place nests of lettuce containing slaw in shallow waxed paper cups.

Cole Slaw—One cup sour milk, three tablespoons mayonnaise, one-fourth to one-half cup sugar, one teaspoon salt, two cups finely shredded cabbage, bit of onion, green pepper, grated cheese. Beat milk; add mayonnaise, sugar and salt. Beat well. Add well crisped cabbage, onion, pepper and pineapple (left-over) cut into small pieces. Mix thoroughly. Put in cups and garnish with grated cheese, paprika and perhaps a sprig of parsley or a bit of celery top.

Tapioca-Banana Pie—Make your favorite tapioca pudding, adding one-fourth extra amount of tapioca to increase stiffness. Reserve egg whites for meringue. Slice bananas over bottom of baked pastry shell, cover with cooled tapioca pudding. Top with meringue and bake as usual. If you do not consume a whole pie at one meal use individual tins, which leaves enough tapioca pudding for another meal.

SUGGESTIONS

Tray for Invalid

No effort should be spared to make the tray of the sick person dainty. Remember it is usually a person devoid of appetite to whom it goes and your job is to make the tray so attractive that the person feels he must eat. The tray cloth and napkin should be spotless, the silver and glassware shining. Never crowd the tray with many foods. The butter must be cold, the bread thin and daintily cut, the soup in a small, heated pitcher, so that it is hot when poured into the dish. If possible use different china than that which is used every day.

Torn-off Buttons

The best way to put back buttons that have been torn off the children's rompers or underclothes is to sew the button securely to a small square of strong tape. Push the button through the holes, leaving the new square on the wrong side of the garment. Fell this down to the romper in back of the button and in this way you are patching as well as sewing on the button.

Thrifty Housewife

Here is a way to use the milk that will sour occasionally in warm muggy weather. A housewife writes:

"Last week the warm days soured a quart of milk, so I made some cottage cheese. I saved the whey, washed the cheese, and put the water and whey in a double boiler and placed my silver in it.

"In about 15 minutes the black and tarnish was all removed without further effort on my part. This solution penetrated the creases of the silver and cleaned the whole in very excellent fashion."

Save Hands

Another housewife writes:

"The other day I discovered a simple way to prevent the tender places on my hands from becoming sore while canning pineapples. After preparing each slice of pineapple rinse hands in cold water and dry well. I also put adhesive tape where the paring knife came in contact with my hands. In a day I canned a dozen pineapples and by using the above method my hands were not sore."

The life of a street traffic tower is comparatively brief. If careless motorists don't knock it over, it is torn down to make way for a new system. — The Detroit Free Press.

Orders Clean-up Of Dance Halls

Mercer County Judge Orders Constables To Give Attention To Dances

MERCER, June 22.—An order, directing the cleanup of public dance halls in Mercer county and instructions to arrest every intoxicant found driving a motor vehicle on the public highways, was issued to Mercer county constables by Judge J. A. McLaughry.

The provisions of the recent eqactment of the state legislature were reviewed by the court for the benefit of the constables when they made their quarterly returns to the court today.

Attendants at public dance halls must be 16 years of age, the court warned, stating that a majority of incorrigible girls brought before him, alleged their misconduct to have started by attendance at public dance halls. All public dance halls will be kept under surveillance in the future if the orders of the court are carried out.

In his instructions against intoxicated drivers, the judge declared that it made no difference whether the occupant drove a "Ford or a Pierce Arrow." Neither the man who operates a car while under the influence of liquor, nor the person who furnishes it, has any regard for human life," the judge declared.

PLANS COMPLETE FOR BOOSTER GAME THURSDAY

New Castle To Battle Canton

Mayor William H. Dunlap And Chamber Of Commerce Boost O. & P. League Game

MEIS WILL HURL FOR NEW CASTLE

By "BUGS" WALTHER

Plans are complete for the big "BOOSTER DAY" game at Centennial Field, on Thursday night. The New Castle team will battle Canton. The game starts at 6:30 o'clock daylight savings time. In event of fine weather the stands at the local ball park should be packed.

The game tomorrow night will in a large measure show whether or not the fans of New Castle desire a league team. The locals are about ready to "toss in the sponge." Financial difficulties swamp the boys and the outlook is anything but promising for New Castle's retaining a berth in the circuit for the second half of the season.

Need Support

A good crowd at the game tomorrow night will encourage the directors of the team. The crowds to date have been terribly slim. Teams in other cities are playing to 1,000 people every game, and there is not any good reason why New Castle should not support a good ball club.

Mayor William H. Dunlap and the Chamber of Commerce have endorsed this game tomorrow night. Mayor Dunlap an ardent baseball patron contends that New Castle needs a team. His Honor the Mayor has missed very few games this year. Secretary Chilton of the Chamber of Commerce has been working hard to make the game with Canton here Thursday night, a rousing testimonial for the locals.

"It all depends on you." New Castle is large enough to support a league team. Let's get out tomorrow night, and show the directors of the team that the fans desire a team here. The Twilight League officials have aided the movement to the extent that they have postponed their Thursday games until Friday night.

Meis To Pitch

Manager "Molly" Meis will do the pitching for New Castle tomorrow night, was the indication today, although Jamieson and Feigert are ready to take their turn in the box. Canton will more than likely use Gantz.

The New Castle team is complete for tomorrow night, with Meis pitching, Bryan behind the bat, McCullough at third, Brehanney at short, Lawrence at second, McCoy at first, Feigert in left, General in center, and Flynn in right. It will be the first home appearance for Lefty Feigert.

There is a movement on foot today to have a band at the ball park tomorrow night to lend a little music and noise to the occasion.

Pennsylvania To Play Indie-Ayes

Three Other Contests Are Scheduled In Lawrence League

ASSIGN UMPIRES FOR CONTESTS

Pennsylvania will make their debut this evening against the Independent A. A. at Scotland Lane. It will be the first time this season that the P. R. R. has appeared in the role of leading the Lawrence County league. The Independents lost to Neshannocks last night and will make a strenuous effort to redeem themselves.

While the Pennsylvania is trying to hold first place, Bessemer will be playing Wampum at Wampum. Should the P. R. R. lose and Bessemer win the Limestoners will go back into second place. On form, however, Pennsylvania and Bessemer should win and retain their positions in the league.

The Neshannocks will have the hardest game of the entire league roster when they tackle the "Tubers", at Ellwood City. Ever since the league was organized the "Nocks and Ellwood City, have been bitter rivals and another of their sharp conflicts is apt to result at Ellwood City.

Croton is holding the cellar position and is scheduled to appear at Energy. The teams will probably attract a large crowd as Energy has a big following and they will try to climb up the ladder by defeating the Crotonites.

The umpires who will arbitrate tonight follow:

Park and Evans at Ellwood City; McCann and Patterson at Energy; McCarthy and Hudson at Wampum and Kroesen and McCormick at Scotland Lane.

Police Team Trims Mail Carriers Team

Officers In Great Form And Show Great Speed Tuesday Afternoon

The city and federal governments as represented by the police and mail carriers teams, played yesterday at the Sampson street baseball grounds for the baseball supremacy of these two departments of government and the police won by a rather one-sided score of 28-3.

The police team was in great form, every man having apparently recovered from the batting slump of the past few weeks and pasting the ball every time at the bat.

Hitting stars of the police team were Dukes and Samuels with six hits in six times at bat. Harper with five hits in six times at bat and Steiner with four hits out of six times up.

The score and the hitting might be attributed to poor twirling on the part of the opposing pitcher, but in this case, McCann for the Mailmen pitched the best ball that the policemen have been up against this season but he could not hope to overcome the batting fervor of the police officers Tuesday. Augostine was in the box for the officers and did excellent work as is indicated by the score and he was also accorded excellent support.

Augostine and Samuels made up the battery for the police and McCann and Iman for the Mailmen. The police would like to arrange games with all comers for Tuesday and Friday afternoons of each week.

England's Best — By Feg Murray

Mrs. Leslie A. Godfree, nee Kathleen ("Kitty") McKane, the present English champion in women's singles and mixed doubles, should be much in the limelight during the next 10 days, while the historic Wimbledon tournament is being contested. During the last five years this energetic young lady has been acknowledged to be the best of the English women tennis players, and, if it hadn't been for the fact that her own ability was more or less lost in the overpowering brilliance of Suzanne Lenglen's achievements, she would have been much more famous than she is.

But smiling Mrs. Godfree has won plenty enough honors on the courts ever since, back in 1919, as Kitty McKane, she won the world's covered court doubles title in Paris. After winning the same title in 1920, she represented England at Antwerp Olympics, won the covered court title again in 1922, and then gave the marvelous Suzanne a good battle at Wimbledon. Those Lenglen-McKane matches were one of the features of the Wimbledon tournaments in recent years. In 1923 Miss McKane defeated Elizabeth Ryan in the sixth round and then lost to Lenglen 6-2, 6-2, in the finals. The following year (1924) Miss McKane advanced to the finals when Mlle. Lenglen defaulted, and then, on the Fourth of July, in the presence of Queen Mary and 20,000 spectators, she defeated Helen Wills 4-6, 6-4, 6-4 to win her first championship of England. She proved a real Nemesis to Helen that year, as she had defeated her previously in the Wightman Cup matches held in England.

Nineteen twenty-five saw another Lenglen-McKane duel, this time in the semi-finals, Suzanne winning without the loss of a single game. In 1926, as Mrs. Godfree, she swept through the hardest half of the tournament to win the championship from Senorita D'Alvarez, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3.

The British champion has played twice in America. In 1923 she won the United States doubles title with Mrs. Covell, and in 1925 she was a finalist in the singles championship, losing to Helen Wills, 3-6, 6-0, 6-2. She also played on the English team at the 1924 Olympic games in Paris.

Feg Murray Says—

You can't blame Jimmy Maloney for wanting a big percentage of the gate receipts at his next fight.

His business makes him sell-fish.

Tennis Club Is Organized In New Wilmington

Kirkbride Is Elected As President —Plan For Competition

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, June 22.—At a meeting held in the Phi Pi Phi fraternity house, those interested in the forming of the New Wilmington Tennis Club met and formally organized such a club. After a preliminary discussion officers were elected and given the power to draw up by-laws for the new association. The officers as elected were: Arthur Kirkbride, president; Osborne Crowe, secretary and Tom Herriott, treasurer. The executive committee then asked for suggestions as to what to include in the by-laws. After suggestions as to amount of dues, positions of the players in the matches, and general function of the club were received, it was then moved and passed that the executive committee should go ahead and draft the by-laws to be presented Friday evening, the time of the next meeting.

The function of the new organization was declared to be: to further tennis as a recreative sport in New Wilmington and to represent New Wilmington in this sport through matches played with surrounding towns. Those present at this initial meeting were: Arthur Kirkbride, Osborne Crowe, George and Tom Herriott, Bill Barnes and Bud Mansell. Bill Clark, John Cummings and John Crowe were absent from the meeting but are considered as charter members of the club.

Seven different rowing courses have been used for the Yale-Harvard races, and they have extended from 1852 to the present time, longer than any other series between American colleges.

Thevenow Lost To Cardinals

St. Louis Pennant Chances Are Lessened By His Injury

HAINES CAPTURES ELEVENTH VICTORY

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, June 22—Although the world champion St. Louis Cardinals have taken second place away from the Chicago Cubs by virtue of a double victory over the Bruins, their chances of winning the National League pennant are lessened today by the loss of the services of Tommy Thevenow, star shortstop. Thevenow fractured his ankle in sliding and it is feared he will be kept out of the game for the remainder of the season.

Jess Haines chalked up his eleventh victory by winning the first game 6 to 5, in a ding-dong contest which went thirteen innings. The score was tied four times before Bell's single finally ended the agony. The nightcap was just a breeze for Flint Rhem, the Cardinals winning 12 to 3 and advancing to within 2½ games of Pittsburgh. Frisch collected seven hits and Webb hit his twelfth homer.

Paul's Bat Silent

Pittsburgh's dream of easy pickings against the Reds while the Cubs and Cardinals were cutting each other's throats were rudely shattered when the Reds nosed them out in the tenth, 7 to 6, on Critz's single. Joe Dawson, starting his first game for Pittsburgh, was batted half way back to Louisville, while the Pirates tied the score in the ninth with a four run rally at Luque's expense.

Paul Waner's consecutive hitting streak was stopped in the 24th game but Clyde Barnhart, his sidekick in the Pittsburgh outfield, ran his string to 21 straight games.

Pirates Lose Out In Tenth Frame

Reds Score Winning Run After Morrison Passes First Man Up

PITTSBURGH, June 22.—The Cincinnati Reds defeated the Pirates seven to six in ten innings here yesterday afternoon. The Pirates tied the score in the ninth but Morrison passed the first batter in the tenth and before the Reds could be retired they had shoved across the winning run.

Up to the tenth there had been lots of action and Morrison went in to pitch for Dawson. He drew the fate of putting over four balls instead of three strikes and Bressler went to first and Allen was sent in to run for him. Hargrave singled and Allen went to third and when Critiz beat out an infield hit Allen scored.

In the first inning Cincinnati scored twice and the Pirates tied the score in the seventh. The Reds pushed four across in the eighth and in the last of the ninth the Pirates got a similar number of runs tying the score.

Luque started the game for the Reds but was relieved in the eighth by May. Dawson took to the bench when Johnny Morrison went to the mound in the tenth. The box score:

The Central Christians and Third U. P. staged a double bill at the Lehigh field on Tuesday night in the New Castle Church league. The Christians won the first game 4 to 2 but the second encounter was halted at 2-2 in the seventh on account of darkness.

The Christians won the game by bunching their hits in the fourth inning and tallying four markers.

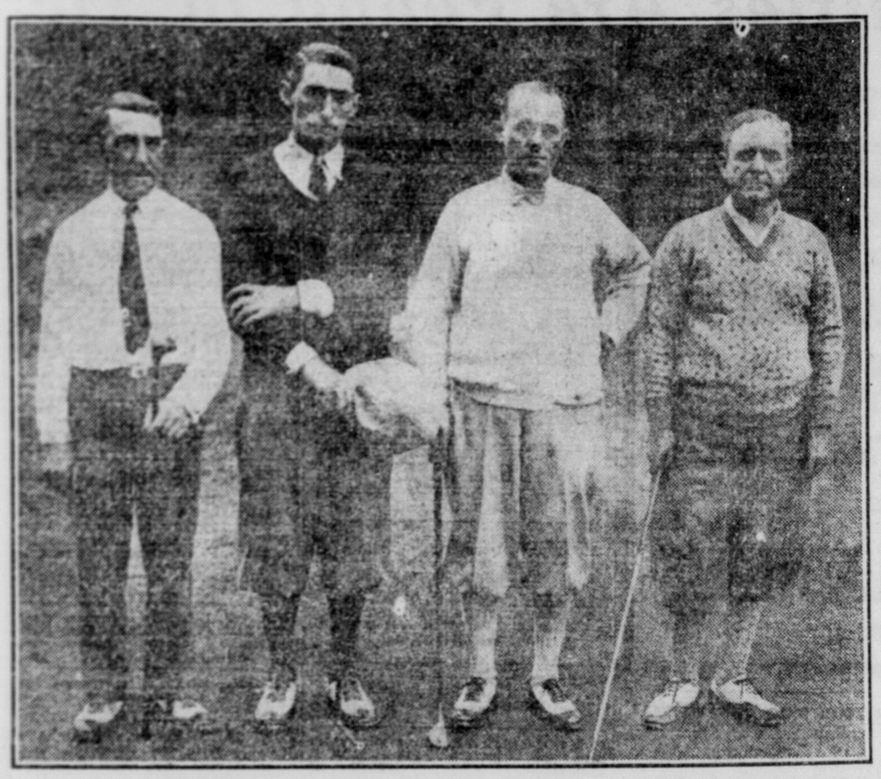
Winners To Be Guests At Dinner

Policemen of this city would like to arrange games for Tuesday and Friday afternoons. The policemen have rounded into condition and would like to play two tilts a week.

The third game between the Policemen and Leslie house will be played off soon. The victors will be guests at a "fish fry." The series stands even.

Mrs. Dolphine Dodge Cromwell of Detroit, the only woman who ever drove a speed boat in the National Gold Cup regatta against the most experienced men drivers in America, has a new boat this year, Nuisance Too, a 26-footer, in which she plans to compete in the big regattas this summer at Boston, Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit and Baltimore, ending up with the big national boat regatta to be held on the Potomac at Washington in September.

ARMOUR'S FIRST FOURSOME AS OPEN CHAMPION



Tommy Armour, new national open golf champion and World War hero, plays his foursome after winning the title. With him (in dark sweater) on the links of the Congressional Club, Washington, are: Freddy McLeod, national champion in 1908; Clyde B. Asher, Washington millionaire and member of the board of governors of the club; and J. R. McCarl, comptroller-general of the United States.

HALL of FAME

Nominating HAROLD CARLSON.

Because patience is a virtue even in Philadelphia.

Because this star pitcher labored diligently to win a place in the sun with his feet in the dark corner of the National League cellar.

Because last year he won 17 games for a team that won scarcely three times that many all season—58 to be exact.

Because he lost but 12 despite failure of his team to hit and field behind him.

Because he jumps from a valiant but outclassed club to a pennant contending outfit.

And because he has a chance to add the pitching punch to that team that would send it to the top—to stay.

Bobby Jones May Defend British Title In Tourney

(International News Service)

ATLANTA, June 22.—If arrangements can be completed, Bobby Jones, one of the world's greatest golfers, plans to sail Saturday to defend his British open golf title at St. Andrews next month.

Bobby announced last spring that he would not defend his British title, giving his reason that he was studying law at Emory university but the fact that he lost his amateur title at Oakmont last week probably caused him to change his mind, friends said.

We can tell you what its scientifically balanced 7-bearing crankshaft and impulse neutralizer contribute toward its greater smoothness; how much more comfortably you ride because of its low chassis design, its unique spring suspension and its shock absorbers; how much more easily it handles because of its pivotal steering gear; and how much safer you feel because of its four-wheel hydraulic brakes.

But the real way for you actually to discover these things for yourself is to learn them today in an extended test over all sorts of roads, through all sorts of traffic, with you doing the driving.

DRIVE A CHRYSLER TO PROVE A CHRYSLER

SPORTS DONE BROWN

By NORMAN E. BROWN

Day by day Ted Lyons, of the Chicago White Sox, is looming more and more the outstanding pitcher of the major leagues.

A pitcher's success is measured, by and large, by his ability to win games. Lyons is demonstrating that ability in a surprising fashion this year, notwithstanding his brilliant showing last season.

The eastern fans have been having a taste recently of the young man's stuff.

In the final game of the Sox-Yankee series, Lyons was sent in to check the murderous Gothamites.

Not only did he pitch good ball, but he won his own game with a triple.

Then, the other day, he faced the Athletics.

His start wasn't very auspicious. The Mackmen filled the bases before Lyons had retired a man. And then Al Simmons cleaned 'em with a home run.

This apparently nettled Mr. Lyons. His teammates possibly were shocked to hear him grit his teeth.

After that the Athletics, Ty Cobb et al, collected just two hits off the young man.

The Sox kept pecking away at Jack Quinn until they had evened the score by the fifth inning. The deadlock remained until the eighth. Then first baseman Clancy eased himself to first on an error and Aaron Ward got a single. Ted Lyons came to bat.

He swung at two and missed both. Then he hit the next one for three bases. Clancy and Ward, of course, scampered home with the wining and clinching runs.

The victory over the Mackmen was his twelfth of the season.

Now if there's anyone in the pitchers' box around the big leagues who can present a better record, generally speaking, to date, send in his name and autographed photo.

Friends and acquaintances of Emil Yde are getting a big kick out of some of his personal history, revealed in a magazine article concerning major league ball players.

The story, it will be recalled by those who read it, stated the alma mater of many of the major leaguers who came out of the college ranks.

Yde, stalwart hurler of the Pittsburgh Pirates, was listed as a graduate of Rockford, Ill., College.

Now the only sad part of that interesting information is that the institution mentioned has always been, since its inception in 1847, a girls' seminary.

Mr. Yde modestly accepts the intended distinction.

Georges Michel, the baker who swam the English Channel in record time last summer, has been awarded the Grand Prix of the French Sports Academy.

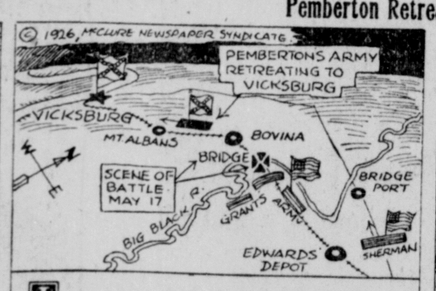
HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

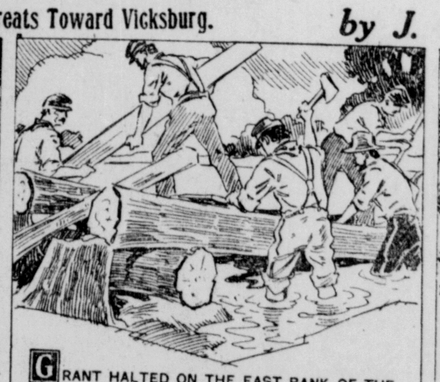
Pemberton Retreats Toward Vicksburg.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

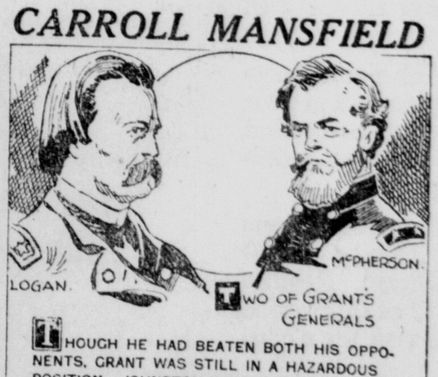
AFTER HIS DEFEAT AT THE BIG BLACK RIVER BRIDGE (MAY 17, 1863), GEN. PEMBERTON, HARASSED AND DISCOURAGED, LED HIS EXHAUSTED TROOPS BACK TO THE FORTIFICATIONS OF VICKSBURG. HE ALSO SENT WORD TO THE GARRISON AT HAYNES' BLUFF TO EVACUATE THAT PLACE AT ONCE AND JOIN HIM IN THE CITY.



IT WAS STILL POSSIBLE FOR PEMBERTON, BY A NIGHT MARCH NORTHWARD ALONG THE WEST BANK OF THE BIG BLACK RIVER, TO ELUDE THE FEDERALS AND JOIN JOHNSTON'S ARMY. SUCH A MOVE, HOWEVER, WOULD HAVE GIVEN THE ENEMY VICKSBURG. AND PEMBERTON PREFERRED TO WITHDRAW INTO THE STRONG DEFENSES OF THAT CITY, WHERE THERE WAS A LIKELIHOOD OF HIS BEATING OFF GRANT'S ATTACKS UNTIL JOHNSTON COULD LEAD A LARGE FORCE TO THE RESCUE.



GRANT HALTED ON THE EAST BANK OF THE BIG BLACK RIVER, WHILE BRIDGES WERE CONSTRUCTED FOR THE PASSAGE OF HIS TROOPS. ELEVEN DAYS HAD ELAPSED SINCE HE LEFT GRAND GULF AND IN THAT TIME HE HAD MARCHED 200 MILES AND DEFEATED TWO ARMIES IN FIVE ENGAGEMENTS.



TWO OF GRANT'S GENERALS

THOUGH HE HAD BEATEN BOTH HIS OPPONENTS, GRANT WAS STILL IN A HAZARDOUS POSITION. JOHNSTON WAS IN HIS REAR WITH A STRONG FORCE, ONLY 50 MILES AWAY, AND WOULD PROBABLY MARCH TO AID PEMBERTON. GRANT HOPED TO FORCE THE SPEEDY SURRENDER OF VICKSBURG SO THAT HE WOULD BE FREE TO FACE ABOUT AND DRIVE JOHNSTON FROM THE STATE OF MISSISSIPPI.

TOMORROW—THE DEFENSES OF VICKSBURG.

N. Y. STOCKS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 22.—Though the trend of stock prices was upward at the beginning of trading today, little progress was made by any of the speculative leaders because of heavy profit-taking and speculative selling. Important groups of stocks were held back by unfavorable reports and rumors, as well as by the shifting of buying demand to other groups.

The weekly crude oil report was a repetition of the old story of overproduction. Oil stocks were fairly firm in the face of this continued unsettlement, with the volume of trading comparatively small.

Joint Wage Scale Committee Meets

Effort To Adjust Soft Coal Strike Is Being Continued

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, June 22.—The joint wage scale committee consisting of coal operators and representatives of union miners of the central Pennsylvania bituminous coal fields met here today in an attempt to agree on a new wage scale to replace the Jacksonville agreement, which ended April 1 last.

The question of a new wage for soft coal union miners was referred to this committee late yesterday, when a joint conference of mine owners and miners' representatives could get nowhere after arguing for nearly four hours in secret session.

The operators propose a modification of the Jacksonville wage agreement adopted in 1924. They allege that because of competition of non-union mines in West Virginia and Kentucky they cannot pay the Jacksonville scale. The miners have announced their determination to stick to the old wage adopted three years ago.

West Virginia coal fields now serve the entire New England bituminous market and this left only a small fraction of the big New York market to Pennsylvania, representatives of the operators asserted.

The living standards of America make it necessary to uphold the Jacksonville scale, spokesmen for the miners declared.

DESPERADO STIRS SOUTHWEST

Not since the terrorizing days of Jesse James have sheriffs of the southwest prepared for a bandit hunt as they have in their search for Matthew Kimes, Oklahoma's 19-year-old desperado. With great daring, Kimes has been "cutting capers," one of the most recent having been his abduction of G. D. McAninch, marshal at Jennings, Okla., and after a night's ride through lonely hills, tying him to a tree and taunting him. A gang freed Kimes from jail last November. Photo below shows Kimes' 16-year-old wife, who has disappeared.

Booster Game On Thursday

Folks Of City To Help Give Team Lift On Thursday

LARGE CROWD IS NOW INDICATED

Co-operation is merely playing the other fellow's game once in a while and on Thursday evening the people of the city will have a chance to demonstrate their co-operation with the New Castle baseball team.

Due to bad weather "breaks" the team has met with indifferent financial success this season and as a result is in the hole several thousand dollars.

The game scheduled with Canton, O., Thursday evening on Centennial Field will be a benefit game and it is hoped that every civic organization and every lover of sport who wants to see the New Castle O. & P. team kept here will be present.

Baseball expenses are high and the only means of paying them is through the box office. Thursday evening should see a record crowd at the New Castle-Canton game for without money the team must disband.

Unemployed Miners Fail To Recognize Non-Union Attempt

(International News Service)

NELSONVILLE, O., June 22.—The second attempt to organize unemployed miners of the Hocking Valley into a non-union organization has failed, it was reported here today, following the cancellation of a mass meeting scheduled to be held last night at Brush Fork Junction.

The object of the meeting, it was declared by Emmett Searles, former official of the Hocking Valley field locals, was to have been the breaking away from the United Mine workers, and the establishment of an independent organization which would confer with the operators with the object of resuming operations at less than the Jacksonville wage scale of $7.50 per day.

A meeting called by Searles last week, proved fruitless when eighty per cent of the miners left the meeting when the proposed split from the United Mine Workers was announced.

America Will Make No Change In 5-5-3 Program

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 22.—The American naval reduction program presented at the Geneva conference represents "the minimum requirements' 'for American national security, and this government cannot consent to any vital changes in it.

This announcement, made here today by an official spokesman for the administration, confirms America's rejection of the British and Japanese counter-proposals, forecast by International News service yesterday. Whether instructions to this effect have already been transmitted to American delegates at Geneva was not stated, but if they have not been, they will be.

Officers Get 108 Half Pints

Frank Hockenberry Makes Getaway After Officers Seize Car

One of the largest liquor hauls in months was made Tuesday evening when County Detective William G. Fleming, State Trooper Muncy and Constable A. Sharp Leslie confiscated the car of Frank Hockenberry and found in the back of it 108 half pints of liquor.

The capture occurred on the Wilmington road at 6:30 o'clock Tuesday evening. Fleming stopped Hockenberry's car and ordered him to open the back of it. He replied that he did not have the key but had it at home.

Private Muncy drove the confiscated car back with Hockenberry with him. As they pulled up to the curb near Hockenberry's home the man jumped out and went upstairs. Private Muncy went with him, but being familiar with the layout Hockenberry darted down a dark back stairway, and escaped.

The car with the liquor is being held and a search is being made for Hockenberry. The haul is worth hundreds of dollars and the car itself is a new sedan. This has been confiscated.

TRI-PARTITE NAVAL EXPERTS NOT IN ACCORD

reduce the thickness of their armor plate."

Replying to the proposal by the British that each nation state its own naval needs, Admiral Jones declared that "naval strength is relative, not absolute, in quality."

Hugh Gibson conferred informally today with leaders of the British and Japanese delegations. Asked if he would insist upon the American proposals for the 5-5-3 ratio for auxiliary ships, Gibson replied: "We have stated that the 5-5-3 ratio is acceptable to the United States."

May Compromise

Great Britain will not insist on her proposals for reduction in the size and period of life for capital ships if the United States and Japan continue their opposition to these suggestions made at the opening of the tri-partite naval disarmament conference, it was learned today.

Although the British are prepared to drop their suggestions as regards capital ships, it is still undetermined whether they will insist upon their recommendations for lightening the tonnage of cruisers.

Admiral Saito, Japanese delegate, again today refused the 5-5-3 ratio for auxiliary ships, but indicated he would make other concessions.

Cards on Table

British delegates feel that even though their suggestions as to capital ships may be abandoned that the United States and Japan should appreciate the fact that they have laid their cards on the table and have given a very definite outline of what their policy will be in 1931 when the Washington treaty comes up for extension and modification.

The experts reached their first compromise today when they accepted the Washington system for measurement of tonnage, namely the displacement of ships with guns and munitions, but without fuel and water. The British had contended that the tonnage should be estimated with the ships in full commission ready for action.

Present indications are that the United States and Japan will be able to find a common ground much easier than the United States and Great Britain or Great Britain and Japan.

All delegates predict a protracted conference and one American admiral observed today that "it takes longer to disagree than to agree."

Hugh Gibson, head of the American delegation, called on Admiral Saito, head of the Japanese delegation, today and it is understood that Admiral Saito reiterated Japan's refusal of the 5-5-3 ratio for cruisers, destroyers and submarines, but stated he was prepared to make other concessions.

July 2 Is Last Date To Reinstate U. S. Insurance

Regional Manager Of Veteran's Bureau Warns Ex-Service Men

July 2, 1927, is the last possible date where by all government insurance may be reinstated and converted. If ex-service men do not accomplish this before midnight of that date the benefits of this fine provision is lost to them forever, says M. J. Shortley, regional manager of the United States Veterans Bureau.

Mr. Shortley states that in most cases reinstatement and conversion to a permanent insurance policy can be made with very little cash. As an example he cites the ordinary life policy for $1,000 for a man, age 30, on which the monthly premium is $1.47. All that is necessary for an ex-service man in good health is to pay this $1.47 plus 45 cents which is the rate on his lapsed war-time insurance, making a total of $2.12. "Surely," Mr. Shortley said, "no ex-service man can afford to be without some of this insurance."

Any member of the American Legion, Veterans of foreign Wars, Disabled American Veterans or the American Red Cross are willing and anxious to assist any ex-service man in reinstating his insurance. Local physicians have offered their services in making the necessary physical examination without any cost to the veteran.

The insurance is endorsed by the leading insurance companies of America, none of which can approach it in the matter of low cost premiums. Any agent of a recognized company will assist a veteran in applying for reinstatement of government insurance.

Mr. Shortley says that in his office at Pittsburgh, aproximately $1,000,000 of insurance is reinstated and converted every day, thus showing that ex-service men are alive to the opportunity offered. Mr. Shortley urges every ex-service man or woman to not delay but take advantage of this opportunity and make application at once.

British Expert Discusses Navy Ratio Proposals

Says 5-5-3 Ratio Not Acceptable For Any But Capital Ships

(International News Service)

GENEVA, June 22.—"Because the 5-5-3 ratio was accepted at Washington for capital ships and aircraft carriers it doesn't follow the same ratio is equitable for cruisers and submarines," declared Sir Frederick Field, British expert today.

"At Washington we particularly asked for a free hand in cruisers due to the length of our trade routes.

"The question of Singapore and Hawaii bases was settled at Washington and it would be difficult to bring it up here."

Sir Frederick said the American proposals for an arbitrary ratio were "unwise" and he objected to the Japanese proposal "to consolidate the present status of the navy," stating this would mean than Great Britain would be in the minority.

"Our navy is not now based on requirements but on our immediate needs."

Sir Frederick maintains that merchant vessels converted into cruisers are "mere eggshells" and useless for offensive purposes, while the United States experts claim that merchant vessels with six-inch guns are masters of the flight cruisers but no match for the 10,000 ton cruisers mounting 8-inch guns.

The stockholders of The Pennsylvania-Ohio Power and Light company voted Tuesday to increase the authorized capital stock of the company by 100,000 shares of preferred stock without nominal or par value, with a miximum dividend rate of $6.00 per share and with the redemption price of $110 per share.

Here! Chilton! An Idea For New Castle Stunt!

(International News Service)

DANVILLE, Pa., June 22.—Countless parades have gone their glittering way down the main thoroughfare here and have been forgotten, but it remained for Danville's "kids" to give the town something to remember.

Guinea pigs and turtles, pet bees and white mice, snakes and tomcats, each in the care of its own tiny master or mistress, took part in the annual "Kids' Day" parade here, in which prizes were given for the largest pet and the smallest, the cat with the shortest tail, the prettiest white mice, and so forth, through a long list of awards.

A record crowd lined the streets here as the strange procession tramped along. Dogs, sleek and shiny and ribbon be-decked for the occasion, barked, chickens broke loose from their cages and spread confusion as the town's youngsters scrambled after them, and bedlam reined generally, while the town's oldsters roared in enjoyment.

One tiny youngster stood, confused and abashed, tightly clutching a pigeon's pin feathers, his entry in the parade having made good his escape and perched on the roof of a nearby building.

The fastest turtle in the parade won its owner a harmonica, while the largest pet, a dray horse, won a watch for a small boy. The most comical pet, in the judges' opinion, was a guinea pig. Then there were prizes for the largest dog, the smallest pet—a bee— the best chicken, and the most unusual pet—a snail.

Efforts to judge the smallest dog almost ended in open hostilities. Finally a modern Solomon stepped forward with a pair of fish scales, and a little girl was awarded a set of books for her entry.

The parade is to be an annual affair, it is announced.
